PREDICT DEATH OF BIBLE BILL FLYER STRIKES AUTO

STATE DIRECTOR OF EDUCATION DOOMED PROPOSED MEASURE

Klansmen Speak For
Bill; Ministers Attack Measure

COLUMBUS, O., March 22.—The house schools committee will kill the "Bible bill," it was confidently predicted today following another public hearing on the measure.

The bill would make compulsory the reading of ten verses from the Bible each day in the public schools. A similar measure deadlocked the legislature two years ago.

The doom of the bill was believed sealed when State Education Director John L. Clifton presented the committee a statement vigorously opposing the measure.

The statement was read by Frank Wilson of the state educational department.

It is extremely probable," said Clifton, "that if a compulsory law on this subject were enacted it would not be fruitful. We can get better results voluntarily," he said.

The education director expressed the belief that legislation of this type "would have a tendency to increase disregard for law." He also assailed the bill from the standpoint of the difficulty of enforcement.

Written speakers spoke before the committee, opposing or supporting the measure.

Two of the advocates said they were members of the Ku Klux Klan. One of these was former representative Denny Cross, Columbus, and the other was Rev. J. H. Moxley, Canal Dover, who had appeared in favor of the bill at the previous hearing.

"I'm a Ku Klux Klansman. I said I was before and I am," Moxley declared, when asked what organization he represented. "I'm here representing the citizens of Ohio."

I am happily and proudly a member of the K. K. K., Cross asserted, "but the Klan is not fighting for this measure. Any more than some other organizations." Principal speakers against the bill included Dr. M. H. Lichtner, pastor of First Congregational Church, Columbus; Rabbi Joseph S. Hornfield, of Toledo; former U. S. minister to Persia; Rev. Ralph E. Davis, pastor of Broad St. M. E. Church, Columbus; Heber H. Votaw, Washington, D. C., brother-in-law of the late President Harding, representing the Religious Liberty Association of America; Rabbi Jacob Tarshish, of Cleveland; Rep. Joseph G. Ehrlich, Cleveland; and Rev. J. H. Myer, pastor of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Lakewood.

"This proposed bill strikes a terrific blow to our whole idea of brotherhood," declared Rev. Davis. "It would produce dissension, misunderstanding and strife. Religion too often has produced these things, instead of bringing people together as it should."

Rabbi Tarshish told the committee he represented "five million Jews in this country and the people who wrote the Bible."

"Enactment of such a measure would deny freedom of conscience to the minorities," said Votaw. "It would tax the people to have religion taught in the schools whether the taxpayers want it or not. I don't want to force my religion down anybody's throat by the strong arm of the law."

"Such a law would be an abridgment of religious liberty," asserted Rev. Myer, of Lakewood. "Our citizens have the right to worship God as they choose; or not to do so, if they choose. This measure would employ the arm and force of the state to force religion on the people. It would be the first step toward establishment of a state religion."

Speakers for the bill included Rep. Lloyd Weaver, Akron, its author; Rev. H. R. Martin, Pittsburgh, president of the National Reform Association; Rev. Aaron W. Watkins, Lima, and former prohibition candidate for president; and Rep. J. H. T. Gordon, of Logan County.

TWO FIREMEN ARE KILLED

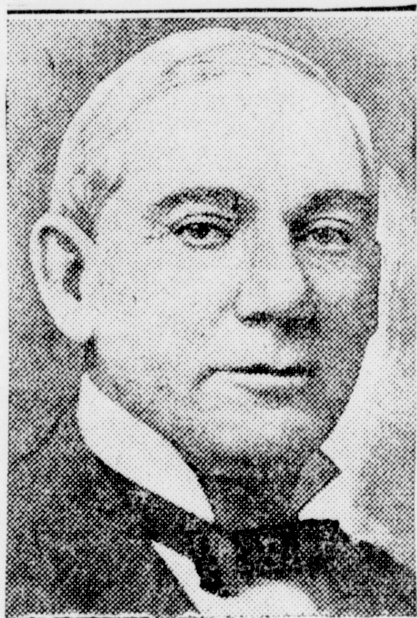

PEORIA, Ill., March 22.—Two firemen were killed by a collapse of a roof and one man is missing in a $200,000 fire here today.

Fireman Dick Keufel and Tom O'Connor were killed and M. E. Stroyer, a watchman, was reported missing.

The fire destroyed the Peoria market, with a loss of $150,000, and did $50,000 damage to the Block and Kuhl department store. The fire still burned this morning, and because of this and the fear that the walls also would tumble, no attempt has been made to search for bodies.

MISSISSIPPI BREAKS LEVEES

ANSWERS CHARGE

After an absence of more than a year James M. Lang, 73-year-old former president of the Citizens Trust Co., of Sullivan, Ind., has returned to face charges of embezzlement which were filed against him when forged notes, totalling $15,000, were found in the bank.

RESCUERS SEEKING FOUR THOUGHT SAFE IN WRECKED MINE

Place Death Toll At 21;
Sixteen Are Still Missing

PARNASSUS, Pa., March 22.—Officials of the Kinloch mine of the Valley Camp Coal Company announced early today that in addition to twenty-two known dead in the explosion at the mine yesterday, four men were believed still alive in the mine and sixteen more were unaccounted for.

Twenty-one of the dead have been taken from the mine. The other died in a hospital from burns. The statement of Ira Thomas, deputy state mine inspector, that the four men may still be alive revived tired workers and buoyed the hopes of relatives in the crowd who were watching the rescue work.

According to Thomas, the men were seen by a group of miners who escaped. The latter called to the others, who were in what later was discovered to be an area free of poisonous gas, to follow but they refused. Unless the four men wandered about in the mine and stumbled into black-damp atmosphere, they will be found alive in an airpocket, Thomas believes.

Fresh air currents were being pumped to the butte from the main mine entry. The men probably have erected barriers to protect themselves from contamination of the fresh air, Thomas said.

Although grief filled parts of the small mining community for those killed in the blast, many homes were scenes of rejoicing today for the escape of more than 230 other miners in the workings when the blast ripped through the interior.

Three investigations were under way. State Assemblyman Michael A. Musmanno announced he would personally conduct an investigation, seeking to bring about more stringent mine legislation to prevent the recurrence of such tragedies.

Westmorland County officials, in whose jurisdiction the mine lies, were conducting another investigation in which they attached to the coroner's and the sheriff's office were co-operating.

The third investigation was begun by State Secretary of Mines Walter H. Glasgow, who went to the scene from Harrisburg to aid in the rescue work.

Company officials announced today that the explosion, which rocked the countryside for miles, probably was caused when a conveyor chain in which attached to the coroner's and the sheriff's office were co-operating.

REBELS SURROUND FEDERALS AT MAZATLAN; TROOPS SENT

Federal forces at Mazatlan, west coast city of Mexico, were prepared today for the anticipated renewal of the rebel attack on that city, key to the western route to Mexico City.

Rebel troops surrounded the city after having bombarded it yesterday. The fighting and bombing caused only minor casualties and damage, according to United Press dispatches from Mazatlan. All communication was cut off except for radio.

THOUSANDS OF FARM ACRES INUNDATED; FARMERS MAN DYKES

Factories Closed As River
Overflows Its Levees

CHICAGO, March 22.—Crumbling levees along the Mississippi River in Illinois, Iowa, Arkansas, Tennessee and Mississippi today inundated thousands of acres of rich farm lands, sent farmers scurrying to the uplands and corps of workers to the dikes in an effort to save other districts from being flooded.

Illinois, in the vicinity of Quincy, was the hardest hit by the highest stages of the Mississippi River in twenty-six years. Indian levee, six miles north of Quincy, crumbled under constant pounding of the river, whipped to greater heights by a high wind.

Factories and wholesale houses along the waterfront in Quincy are under water and forced to close down. Men thrown out of jobs by the shutdown joined business men and laborers who worked yesterday and all night on levees around Quincy to prevent further overflow.

At Keokuk, Ia., several factories have been closed and water was lapping at the tops of levees made higher by sandbag and lumber barricades.

In case of more rain, workers feared the weakened levees would give way and the river overflow into thousands of acres of bottom land on both sides of the stream. About 20,000 acres are under water around Quincy and vast acreage along the river in Tennessee, Arkansas and Mississippi.

F. W. Brist, meteorologist, in St. Louis, said there was little possibility of a further rise in the Mississippi and that concentration of levee workers was more of a precaution than a fear the levees would break.

HOUSE PASSES BILL TO SEND DELEGATES TO UNVEIL STATUES

Appropriates $30,000 To Finance Trip To Europe

COLUMBUS, O., March 22.—The house today had before it the "sterilization bill" by Rep. P. H. Rogers, Lorain County, aimed at mental defectives and criminal degenerates, and the bill by Rep. Frank S. Bartlett, Geauga County, to increase the educational requirements for licensed osteopaths.

The house, without a dissenting vote, passed the bill by Rep. Lester J. Abele, Cleveland, providing for the sending of an official Ohio delegation to Europe next September to attend the dedication of the battle monuments erected to commemorate the deeds of the state soldiers in the World War. The vote is 108 to 0. The bill now goes to the senate.

The proposed commission would include the governor, the adjutant general, ten legislators appointed by the governor, all to be veterans, and a hand composed of former bandsmen of the Thirty-seventh Ohio Division. An appropriation of $30,000 is carried in the bill to pay the expenses of the commission and for uniforms for the band.

The monuments to be dedicated, erected by the state of Ohio, are at Eynne, Belgium, and Montfaucon and Hattonchateau, France.

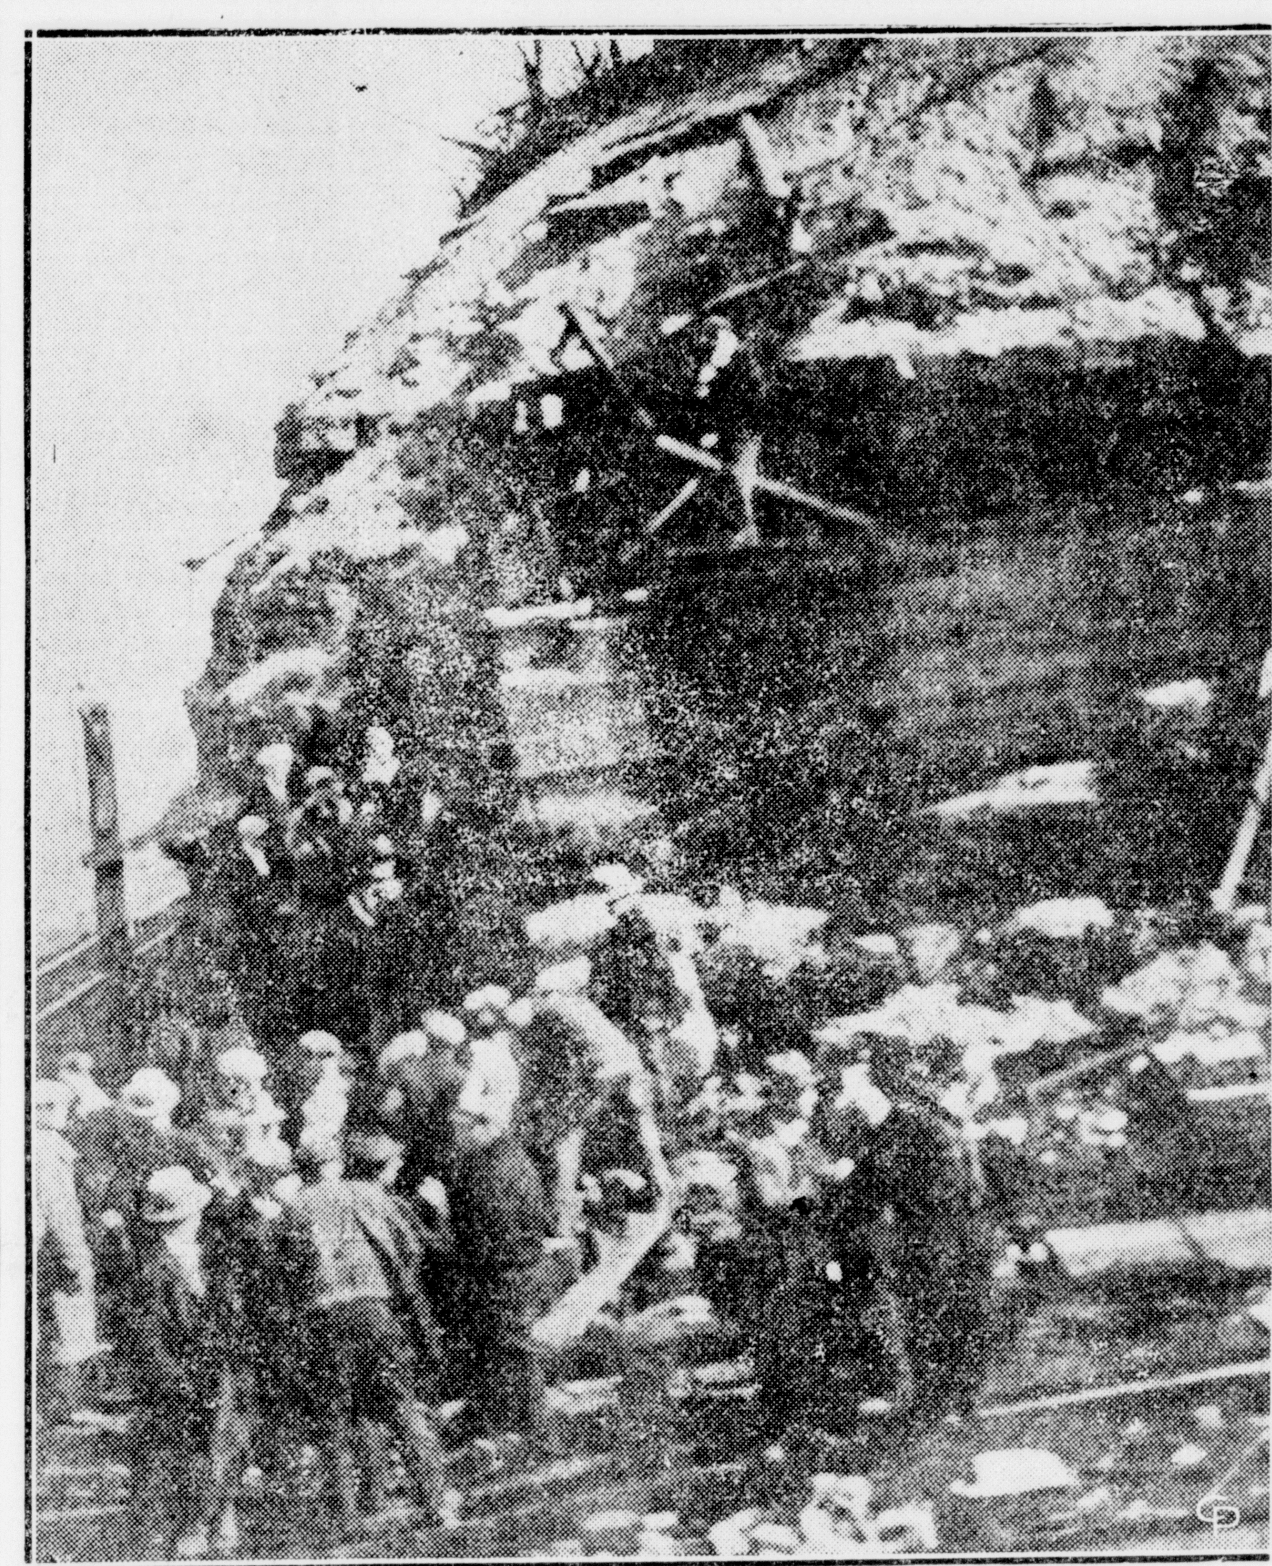

A brief address thanking the house was made by Col. Ralph Cole, of Findlay, former member of the assembly, after the bill had been passed.

REBELS SURROUND FEDERALS AT MAZATLAN; TROOPS SENT

Meanwhile, Gen. Plutarco Calles ordered 6,000 federal troops on the central northern front to start for Mazatlan to reinforce federalists there.

Calles continued preparations for his offensive in Chihuahua, where it was reported some of his troops already were pursuing insurgents. Government officials expressed confidence that federalists would hold Mazatlan and prevent a rebel flanking attack on the Calles army and the capital.

REVIVAL OF BATTLE TO REFORM SENATE RULES IN PROSPECT

Senator Jones Will Lead
Fight On Secret
Votes

WASHINGTON, March 22.—A revival of the old battle to reform the senate rules will be promoted at the outset of the coming session of congress. Senator Wesley L. Jones of Washington, the Republican whip, announced today.

Jones said he would introduce a resolution to prevent consideration on nominations in secret sessions except when a majority of the senate votes for secret sessions, and also a resolution designed to end filibusters by compelling senators to talk on the subject at any time pending before the senate.

With a new senate administration going into power Jones believes the chances for rules revision are better now than they have been. He will try to force a vote on the issues early in the session, but concedes the majority is likely to send both proposed changes to the rules committee, known as "the senate graveyard" to which many proposed reforms have been referred but from which none have recently returned.

Vice President Curtis will relinquish the chairmanship of the graveyard committee to Senator George Moses who is opposed to rules reform in the two instances suggested by Jones. The Washington senator however, said he would not permit his changes to be buried, declared he would move to discharge the committee if it takes too long in considering the changes.

"There are a large number of senators who refuse to abide by the secrecy rule," Jones said, pointing to the United Press exclusive publication in January of the roll call of the nomination of former Secretary of Interior Roy O. West. "The rule is obsolete and as long as it stands in its present form, there will be no effective secrecy. I do not believe there is any excuse for continuing the present system."

SAVED BY STATUTE
CANTON, O., March 22.—The county grand jury has returned a report in which it declares that John M. Boyer, former superintendent of the Canton Workhouse who was discharged when a $14,000 shortage was discovered in his accounts, was not indicted because of the statute of limitations.

A few minutes after this photo was snapped approximately 100 of the entombed men were led to safety. The picture below is the first snapped after the explosion and shows the shaft while the smoke of the explosion was still rising above it, a few minutes after a 200-foot flame shot from the opening. Photos are by Central Press. At least twenty-two miners were killed by the blast.

DOVER MAYOR A RESTED FOR TAKING BRIBE FROM DRY AGENT

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., March 22.—Peter J. Groh, 52, mayor of Dover Township for six terms, was arrested today by state prohibition agents who accused him of accepting a $50 bribe from a "rum-runner."

Groh is in the Tuscarawas County jail and the agents will await the arrival of State Probation Director R. R. Beetham before deciding what charge to place against him. They said Groh's activities had been investigated for some time.

According to Agent Edward Little of Columbus, he introduced himself to Groh as a rum-runner, and asked protection. Last night he went to the mayor's home in Dover township and offered him a

FLYER STRIKES AUTO AT JAMESTOWN PIKE ON FRIDAY MORNING

John A. Parker, Milledgeville And William Edge, Jeffersonville, Victims Of Grade Crossing Tragedy; Bodies Here

The Jamestown Pike crossing of the Pennsylvania Railroad, near the eastern city limits of Xenia claimed its ninth and tenth lives within the last four years with the death of two men, who were almost instantly killed when their sedan was struck by the first section of the "American," passenger flyer, at 9:22 a. m. Friday.

The dead:

John A. Parker, 72, Milledgeville, O., who sustained a broken neck and multiple injuries to the head.

William Edge, 68, Jeffersonville, O., who suffered a broken neck, fractured skull, broken right shoulder and crushed chest.

The Fayette County residents were traveling west toward Xenia in an Overland closed car. The fast passenger train, bound from New York to St. Louis, carried the machine for a distance of nearly 200 feet from the crossing.

The body of Parker, badly identification was completed mangled, was picked up 150 feet from the crossing and death had already taken place. Edge's body was found on the highway twenty-five feet away and he lived only a short time after the crash. He died a few minutes after Dr. E. M. Chambliss, county coroner, reached the crash and saw the auto being carried along the rails. The machine was wrecked.

The pilot of the locomotive was slightly damaged and the departure of the train was delayed for half an hour while a crew from the Xenia yards made repairs.

Coroner Chambliss notified relatives of the two crash victims Friday.

The two men recently traded farms. The farm Edge traded for is situated partly in Greene and partly in Clinton County. When the accident occurred, they were on their way to Xenia to arrange for a transfer of the deed here.

Parker is survived by his widow and a daughter. No immediate relatives survive Edge, whose wife died two weeks ago, according to Oliver S. Nelson, cashier of the Milledgeville Bank, and Forest Smith, also of that village, who came to Xenia after being notified of the tragedy to take charge of Parker's body.

Edge is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Jennie Allen, Orlando, Fla.; Mrs. Edna Wilson, South Charleston, and Mrs. Mary Cozzenour Chadin, who went to her father's home to live and keep house for him last Monday following the death of his wife, Robert, a son of Mrs. Chadin, also lived with them. A son-in-law of Edge, Ater Arnold, of near Jeffersonville, came to Xenia Friday afternoon.

J. W. Armentrout, Milledgeville undertaker, took Parker's body back home for funeral services and burial while the body of Edge was to be returned to Jeffersonville by A. R. McCoy, Washington C. H. funeral director.

During the last four years ten persons have lost their lives at that particular crossing, which is considered a dangerous one.

In September, 1927, there was some agitation for the elimination of that crossing, after four deaths had occurred there as a result of a Sunday morning accident.

Because of its bad record for accidents in the past, G. F. Schlesinger, former Xenian, at that time state highway director, had made plans for holding a hearing on the necessity of eliminating the crossing.

County Commissioners were requested to co-operate in this project.

Herman Eavey, member of the board, said Friday that commissioners co-operated to the extent of filing an application requesting that a preliminary survey be made, but that insofar as it knew, the state never carried out its plans since no plans and specifications and a cost estimate had ever reached the commissioners' office here.

The invitation to allied governments to participate in the funeral services made it probable that the pall bearers would include Marshal Joffre, Gen. John J. Pershing, General Weygand, and Field Marshal Lord Plumer of England, who will represent the late Earl Haig.

Premier Poincare and the government officials have decided to make Foch's funeral one of the greatest displays of France's military force. Every available soldier within easy reach of Paris will participate, either marching in the procession or aiding 3,000 police and republican guards to keep order.

All troops garrisoned in Paris will march with regimental flags and three battalions of the 20th corps, which Foch commanded, will be brought here from Nancy. Poincare intends to prevent any possible communist demonstration by additional precautions. Communists recently have attacked Foch as a result of his anti-Bolshevik writings.

FACE DISBARMENT
CINCINNATI, O., March 22.—Adolph A. Gruber and John L. Schrimper, Cincinnati attorneys accused in the "beer scandal" which resulted in the conviction of Bert B. Buckley, former state treasurer, will face disbarment proceedings Monday, April 8.

MICHIGAN DROPS "LIFE TERM" LAW

LANSING, Mich., March 22.—Both wet and dry forces today expressed satisfaction over action of the Michigan senate in passing the amended Cuthbertson bill providing for increased penalties for one-time dry law offenders, but eliminating bootlegging as a life term offense after four convictions.

The bill provides a mandatory jail sentence of at least one year for the "commercial" bootlegger. For minor offenders the minimum penalty is a $50 fine.

STATE DIRECTOR OF EDUCATION DOOMED PROPOSED MEASURE

Klansmen Speak For

COLUMBUS, O., March 22.—The house schools committee will kill the "Bible bill," it was confidently predicted today following another public hearing on the measure.

The bill would make compulsory the reading of ten verses from the Bible each day in the public schools. A similar measure deadlocked the legislature two years ago.

The doom of the bill was believed sealed when State Education Director John L. Clifton presented the committee a statement vigorously opposing the measure.

The statement was read by Frank Wilson of the state educational department.

"I am happily and proudly a member of the K. K. K., Cross as a Klansman, but the Klan is not fighting for this measure any more than some other organizations."

Principal speakers against the bill included Dr. M. H. Lichliter, pastor of First Congregational church, Columbus; Rabbi Joseph S. Horowitz, of Toledo; former U. S. minister to Persia, Rev. Halpin E. Davis, pastor of Broad St. M. E. church, Columbus; Heber H. Votaw, Washington, D. C., brother-in-law of the late President Harding, representing the Religious Liberty Association of America; Rabbi Jacob Tarshish, of Columbus; Rev. Joseph G. Ehrlich, Cleveland; and Rev. J. H. Myer, pastor of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church, Lakewood.

"This proposed bill strikes a terrific blow to our whole idea of brotherhood," declared Rev. Davis. "It would declare dissent, misunderstanding and strife. People too often have produced these things instead of bringing people together as it should."

Rabbi Tarshish told the committee he represented "five million Jews in this country and the people who wrote the Bible."

The third investigation was begun by State Secretary of Mines Walter H. Glasgow, who went to the scene from Harrisburg to aid in the rescue work.

Company officials announced today that the explosion, which rocked the countryside for miles, probably was caused when a conveyor chain in the tangle at the mine mouth broke and dropped tons of coal and steel to the bottom of the slope. A spark, which occurred in the crash at the bottom of the slope, probably ignited coal dust in the mine.

COLUMBUS, O., March 22.—The house today had before it the "sterilization bill" by Rep. P. H. Rogers, Lorain County, aimed at mental defectives and criminal degenerates, and the bill by Rep. Frank S. Bartlett, Geauga County, to increase the educational requirements for licensed osteopaths.

The house, without a dissenting vote, passed the bill by Rep. Lester J. DOVER MAYOR A RRESTED FOR TAKING BRIBE FROM DRY AGENT

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., March 22.—Peter J. Groh, 52, mayor of Dover Township for six terms, was arrested today by state prohibition agents who accused him of accepting a $50 bribe from a "rum-runner."

Groh is in the Tuscarawas County jail and the agents will await the arrival of State Prohibition Director R. R. Beetham before deciding what charge to place against him. They said Groh's activities had been investigated for some time.

According to Agent Edward Little of Columbus, he introduced himself to Groh as a rum-runner, resulted in the conviction of Bert B. Buckley, former state treasurer, will face disbarment proceedings Monday, April 8.

FLYER STRIKES AUTO

AT JAMESTOWN PIKE ON FRIDAY MORNING

John A. Parker, Milledgeville And William Edge,
Jeffersonville, Victims Of Grade Crossing
Tragedy; Bodies Here

The Jamestown Pike crossing of the Pennsylvania Railroad, near the eastern city limits of Xenia claimed its ninth and tenth lives within the last four years with the death of two men, who were almost instantly killed when their sedan was struck by the first section of the "American" passenger flyer, at 9:22 a. m. Friday.

The dead:
John A. Parker, 72, Milledgeville, O., who sustained a broken neck and multiple injuries to the head.
William Edge, 68, Jeffersonville, O., who suffered a broken neck, fractured skull, broken right shoulder and crushed chest.

The Fayette County residents were traveling west toward Xenia in an Overland closed car. The fast passenger train, bound from New York to St. Louis, carried the machine for a distance of nearly 200 feet from the crossing.

The body of Parker, badly identification was completed through papers found in their pockets. The bodies were examined by Dr. W. A. Galloway, Milledgeville, and Dr. F. M. Chambliss, county coroner, reached the scene of the accident.

The bodies were removed in a R. M. Need ambulance to the R. M. Need undertaking establishment, where identification was completed through papers found in their pockets. The bodies were examined by Dr. W. A. Galloway, Milledgeville, and Dr. F. M. Chambliss, county coroner, reached the scene of the accident.

The conductor in charge of the train was D. H. Mote, Columbus. There were no actual eye-witnesses of the crash, although Elmer Hetsel, living nearby, and J. M. Spahr, R. R. No. 2, Xenia, heard the crash and saw the auto being carried along the rails. The machine was wrecked.

The plot of the locomotive was slightly damaged and the departure of the train was delayed for half an hour while a crew from the Xenia yards made repairs.

Coroner Chambliss notified relatives of the two crash victims Friday.

The two men recently traded farms. The farm Edge traded for is situated partly in Greene and partly in Clinton County. When the accident occurred, they were on their way to Xenia to arrange for a transfer of the deed here.

Parker is survived by his widow and a daughter. No immediate relatives survive Edge, whose wife died two weeks ago, according to Oliver S. Nelson, cashier of the Milledgeville Bank, and Forest Smith, also of that village, who came to Xenia after being notified of the tragedy to take charge of Parker's body.

Edge is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Jennie Allen, Orlando, Fla.; Mrs. Ella Wilson, South Charleston, and Mrs. May Cogswell Chaffin, who went to her father's home to live and keep house for him last Monday following the death of his wife. Robert, a son of Mrs. Chaffin, also lived with them. A son-in-law of Edge, Edgar Arnold, of near Jeffersonville, came to Xenia Friday afternoon.

J. W. Armentrout, Milledgeville undertaker, took Parker's body back home for funeral services and burial while the body of Edge was to be returned to Jeffersonville by J. R. McCoy, Washington C. H. funeral director.

During the last four years ten persons have lost their lives at that particular crossing, which is considered a dangerous one.

In September, 1927, there was some agitation for the elimination of the crossing, after four deaths had occurred there as a result of a Sunday morning accident.

Because of its bad record for accidents in the past, G. F. Schlesinger, former Xenia, at that time state highway director, had made plans for holding a hearing on the necessity of eliminating the crossing.

County Commissioners were requested to co-operate in this project.

Herman Eavey, member of the board, said Friday that commissioners co-operated to the extent of filing an application requesting that a preliminary survey be made, but that insofar as he knew, the state never carried out its plans and still plans and specifications and cost estimate had never reached the commissioners' office here.

MICHIGAN DROPS "LIFE TERM" LAW

LANSING, Mich., March 22.—Both wet and dry forces today expressed satisfaction over action of the state senate in passing the amended Cuthbertson bill providing for increased penalties for one time dry law offenders, but eliminating bootlegging as a life term offense after four convictions.

The bill provides a mandatory jail sentence of at least one year for the "commercial" bootlegger. For minor offenders the minimum penalty is a $50 fine.

SCIENTIFIC FOX BREEDING

MUNICH, Bavaria, March 22.—Breeding of silver foxes on a "high-brow" scale is being undertaken by eight university professors of Tankenrain, Bavaria. The farm which they have established with eight pairs of foxes as a nucleus will be conducted wholly on scientific principles. BUILDS MODEL OF GIANT TRANSATLANTIC AIRSHIP

This mighty dirigible-airplane, modeled by Claude H. Freese, of Los Angeles, may soon be flying the air lanes between Los Angeles and Paris, according to its inventor. It can carry 500 passengers and would make the trip in 80 hours, flying at an average speed of 125 miles an hour, and being able to land on water in case of an emergency. It is to be 160 feet long and 102 feet deep, and will carry its gasoline supply in the wings.

Put a "handful of health" in the muffins tonight

IT TAKES only a few minutes to make bran muffins if you use the famous ALL-BRAN recipe. Just try it. You'll get the lightest, fluffiest, best muffins you ever took from the oven. All the family will surely praise your skill that night!

And remember, you'll be helping them to better health at the same time. For so many foods are lacking in bulk or roughage. And it is this lack that so often causes constipation—which in turn steals energy and health and may even cause serious disease.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides bulk in generous quantity because it is 100% bran. By serving it in some form every day you can protect your family. So many ways to serve it too. In waffles, breads. Sprinkled into soups. Mixed with other cereals. And, of course, with milk or cream, fruits or honey

ALL-BRAN Muffins

2 tablespoons shortening, 1/4 cup sugar, 1 egg, 1 cup sour milk, 1 cup Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, 1 cup flour, 1/2 teaspoon soda, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon baking powder.

Cream shortening and sugar together, add egg. Mix and sift flour, soda, salt, and baking powder. To creamed mixture add ALL-BRAN, then milk, alternately with sifted dry ingredients. Pour into greased muffin tins, and bake in moderate oven (375° F.) for 20 minutes. Yield: either 8 large or 12 medium-size muffins. If sweet milk is used instead of sour, omit soda and use 3 teaspoons baking powder.

added, it makes a delightful breakfast dish.

Be sure you get genuine Kellogg's—the original ALL-BRAN. Part-bran products, at best, bring part results. Doctors recommend ALL-BRAN. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal.

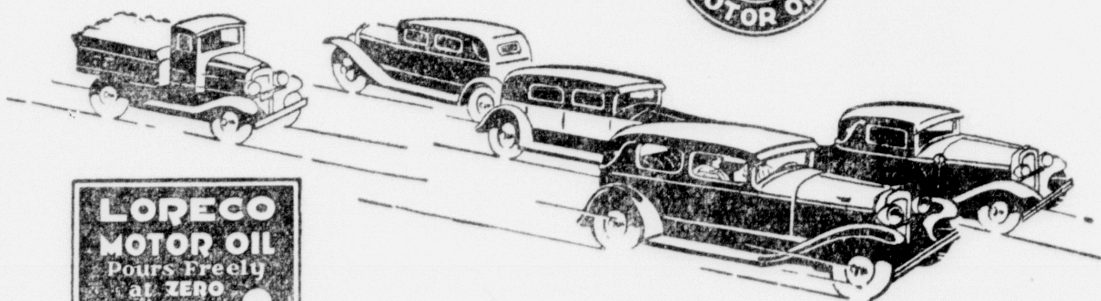

Sold by all grocers. Served in hotels, restaurants and dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Mrs. Tilford Entertains B.P.W. Club Members

THE beauty and infinite pathos of the Negro spiritual, was brought home to members of the Xenia Business and Professional Women's Club and their guests by Mrs. William H. Tilford, who appeared on the club program for the March meeting at the Second United Presbyterian Church Thursday night.

Playing her own guitar accompaniment, Mrs. Tilford sang six spirituals. Her full, rich contralto touched the hearts of her listeners in "Heaven", "Marf, Don't You Cry No More", and others of the haunting melodies that America has grown to love since it has commenced to know them. Into her songs, the singer placed real feeling, and something of the religious fervor, with its accompaniment of rhythmic body movement and clapping hands that sways the dusky worshiper of the southland permeated her audience.

It is only lately that Xenia has come to know the artistry of Mrs. Tilford along this line, and those who have had the good fortune to hear her promptly become enthusiasts. So far as her audience of Thursday night was concerned, she might have kept on singing and playing all evening, without her hearers noting the passage of time.

W. C. T. U. RECALLS EARLY TEMPERANCE WORK.

The New Burlington W. C. T. U. held an interesting meeting at the home of Mrs. Frank McIntire, Tuesday afternoon, with about twenty members present and one visitor.

The Rev. Homer Curless, pastor of the M. E. Church, opened the meeting with devotions. Mrs. Daisy Haines, parliamentary superintendent conducted an interesting drill.

Several business matters were taken up after which the program was given over to the leadership of the Rev. Mr. Curless.

Mrs. Raleigh Bozan, gave a talk on "Ten Reasons Why the W. C. T. U. Should Carry On." Miss Aurora Peterson, read "Recognition of Principles".

Mrs. Roy Carr read a leaflet on "Actual Experience with W. C. T. U. Publicity." Mrs. Anna Peterson, ex-president, gave an interesting talk on "What Influences Has Our W. C. T. U. on This Community?"

Mrs. Peterson in her talk went back to the time of slavery in 1860, and told how the Christian women of New Burlington helped the slaves escape the masters that were on their trail with dogs and whips.

She also told of the first active temperance work which was started in 1870, when a small band of women decided to get rid of the saloons of the town. In 1872, the crusade was on and several women of the community went to Xenia to help carry on the work against the saloons.

After a temperance meeting, held at Delaware, Ohio, in 1876, the local union was organized with twenty-two members. On looking over the records of 1882, it was found that only three members of that time are living today. They are Mrs. Diadem Harlen, Mrs. Lucie Compton, and Mrs. Rena Smith, Sewell of Columbus, Mrs. Peterson reported.

Mrs. Peterson ended her talk with this final good point of influence of the W. C. T. U. that "it wipes out denominational lines in Christian work. This blending of women at the mercy seat has brought to them a revelation of the Holy Spirit's power and they are conscious that His Favor crowns their work," she said.

Mrs. Homer Curless gave a short talk in commemoration of the 135th anniversary of the birth of Neal Dow, the "Father of Prohibition."

The meeting then closed with the W. C. T. U. benediction. A social time was enjoyed and refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Walter Lackey and Mrs. Roy Carr.

Modern Art Marks New Fabrics

WHAT'S your favorite automobile? To be smart this spring milady must wear a picture of her favorite car on her costume. Pictures of autos, however, represent only one classification of the art that has reached women's spring costumes, for airplanes, folk dances and other views will make a walking art gallery out of the smartly dressed woman.

This fact is gleaned from the Fabric Fashion Show which opened before a large crowd at Jobe's Thursday afternoon and is continuing Friday afternoon and night. Materials being shown are in light weight cottons and gay-colored silks. The fabric figures represent the new idea in what is known as "speed age silks."

One, called "Excuse My Dust," is a light blue silk on which appears a picture of a Cadillac auto radiator and a cloud of dust. Another, known as "Air Speed," portrays airplanes and is said to be worn in an ensemble by Miss Amelia Earhart. Dancing figures are pictures in the "National Folk Dance" fabric and Fords of the model T era, decorate another silk pattern.

The fabric show is being conducted by Miss Maude Thompson, fabric fashion adviser of Marshall Field and Co., Chicago, and Xenia girls acting as models are: Misses Doris McCormick, Helen Hill, Helen Currie, Georgia Strain, Grace Fudge, Nancy Lou Johnson and Marilyn Johns. Miss Thompson is advising with store patrons regarding new spring modes.

Mrs. Tilford Entertains B.P.W. Club Members

THE beauty and infinite pathos of the Negro spiritual, was brought home to members of the Xenia Business and Professional Women's Club and their guests by Mrs. William H. Tilford, who appeared on the club program for the March meeting at the Second United Presbyterian Church Thursday night.

Playing her own guitar accompaniment, Mrs. Tilford sang six spirituals. Her full, rich contralto touched the hearts of her listeners in "Heaven", "Marf, Don't You Cry No More", and others of the haunting melodies that America has

W. C. T. U. RECALLS EARLY TEMPERANCE WORK.

The New Burlington W. C. T. U. held an interesting meeting at the home of Mrs. Frank McIntire, Tuesday afternoon, with about twenty members present and one visitor.

The Rev. Homer Curless, pastor of the M. E. Church, opened the meeting with devotions. Mrs. Daisy Haines, parliamentary superintendent, conducted an interesting drill.

Several business matters were taken up after which the program was given over to the leadership of the Rev. Mr. Curless.

Mrs. Raleigh Bogan, gave a talk on "Ten Reasons Why the W. C. T. U. Should Carry On." Miss Aurora Peterson, read "Recognition of Principles."

Mrs. Roy Carr read a leaflet on "Actual Experience with W. C. T. U. Publicity." Mrs. Anna Peterson, ex-president, gave an interesting talk on "What Influences Has Our W. C. T. U. on This Community?"

Mrs. Peterson in her talk went back to the time of slavery in 1850, and told how the Christian women of New Burlington helped the slaves escape the masters that were on their trail with dogs and whips.

She also told of the first active temperance work which was started in 1870, when a small band of women decided to get rid of the saloons of the town. In 1872, the crusade was on and several women of the community went to Xenia to help carry on the work against the saloons.

After a temperance meeting, held at Delaware, Ohio, in 1876, the local union was organized with twenty-two members. On looking over the records of 1882, it was found that only three members of that time are living today. They are Mrs. Diadem Harlen, Mrs. Lucy Compton, and Mrs. Rena Smith Sewell, Columbus, Mrs. Peterson reported.

Mrs. Peterson ended her talk with this final good point of influence of the W. C. T. U. that "it wipes out denominational lines in Christian work. This blending of women at the mercy seat has brought to them a revelation of the Holy Spirit's power and they are conscious that His favor crowns their work," she said.

Mrs. Homer Curless gave a short talk in commemoration of the 135th anniversary of the birth of Neal Dow, the "Father of Prohibition."

The meeting then closed with the W. C. T. U. benediction. A social time was enjoyed and refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Walter Lackey and Mrs. Roy Carr.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE CHASTENING OF LOVE—For the Lord will not cast off forever: But though he cause grief, yet will he have compassion according to the multitude of his mercies. For he doth not afflict willingly, nor grieves the children of men.

NO FADS AND FANCIFUL THEORIES

In outlining the general policies of his administration, President Hoover keeps to the essence of his ideas and plans as they have been indicated heretofore in public utterances. Manifestly he purposes building largely upon the reconstructive foundations laid by Mr. Coolidge. Those who incline toward fads and fanciful theories of government and diplomacy will, therefore, find small comfort in what he says; those who believe in sound, forward looking methods have reason to be pleased.

The President cherishes definite ideas regarding the proper scope and limitation of government regulation of business. He draws a sharp distinction between the duty of government with respect to strictly private enterprise and public service corporations. He believes that government should be helpful to business, but there is no suggestion of state socialism in his program. Mr. Hoover approves earnestly everything that makes for international peace, and is optimistic regarding ultimate American adherence to the world court, but he is no pacifist in the current acceptance of the word, for he says, "Peace can be contributed to by respect for our ability in defense." Fresh from detailed study of relationships with Latin America, he asserts regarding the countries of South and Central America, "We wish only for the maintenance of their independence and the growth of their stability and prosperity," and so he disclaims any sympathy with "imperialism," so-called.

Toward the end of his discourse, Mr. Hoover says: "We do know what the attainments of these ideals should be: The preservation of self-government and its full foundations in local government; the perfection of justice, whether in economic or social fields; the maintenance of ordered liberty; the denial of domination by any group or class; the building up and preservation of equality of opportunity; the stimulation of initiative and individuality; absolute integrity in public affairs; the choice of officials for fitness to office; the direction of economic progress toward prosperity and the further lessening of poverty; the freedom of public opinion; the sustaining of education, and of the advancement of knowledge the growth of religious spirit and the tolerance of all faiths; the strengthening of the home; the advancement of peace."

And this, we take it, is the confession of national faith of the new President of these United States. It is a good one for everybody to adopt and keep in sight.

A PLAY ABOUT RODEO—"Buckaroo," a self-styled melodramatic comedy by three authors, is a dramatization of the Rodeo (ro-day-o, if you please) and is peopled with numerous cowboys, cow lassies, bronk busters and most of the other necessary characters that go to make an accurate portrait of that outdoor entertainment. It is at times an interesting show, but only at times. It is for the most part a jerky and feeble story, suffering chiefly from faulty direction, and probably was intended to arouse the "talkie" impresarios. Joe Lasky of the Famous Players firm witnessed the premiere, incidentally.

It should make a good talking picture, for it offers opportunities that that brand of entertainment might manage better. The lad from the cow ranch, who is tricked by a Chicago racketeer and her keeper out to his champion prize money, only to be shot by the gunman and then ride a stubborn pony to first place, would be a startling episode on the screen. On the stage this wallow is buried.

OVER-ESTIMATING MISTAKES

A Jersey postal clerk who, in his twenty years of service, had taken great pride in the accuracy of his accounts, killed himself because he couldn't account for a twenty-dollar shortage. After his death, inspectors found he had made a mistake in his figures and that he was 21 cents over instead of $20 short.

Poor man, like so many others, he lost his sense of perspective. He got himself all out of proportion to his job and his life. He took his mistakes too seriously. No use taking any mistakes so seriously that you let it wreck your life—much less a little mistake. The first thing a normal man should do is forgive himself—and then make up his mind not to make the same blunder again. Of course he will make other blunders, but unless he is very stupid they should always be other blunders.

Censorship of radio or motion pictures before utterance is as damaging to the American form of democracy as censorship of the press itself would be.

Liberty is generally achieved by great convulsive upheavals, while its impairment is generally subterranean and insidious. No chief in the right moves so silently as oppression.

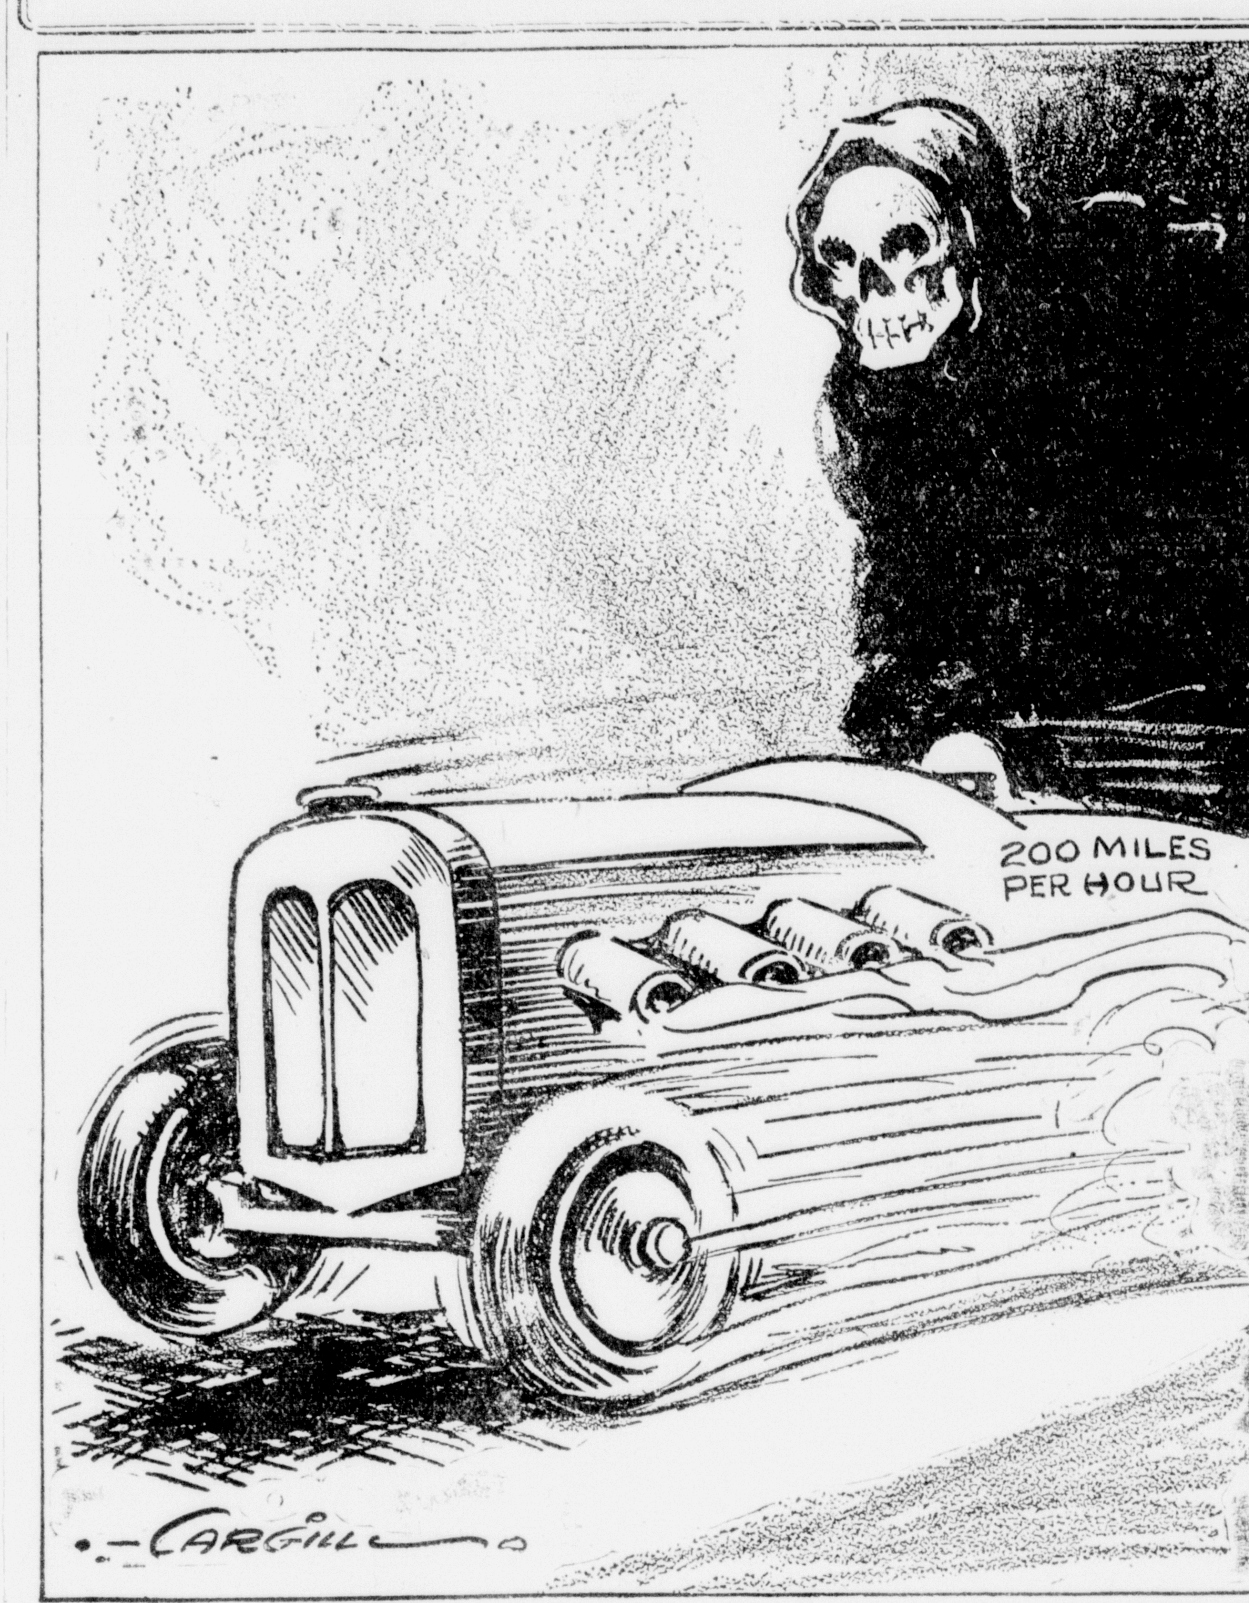

So far as the freedom of thought is concerned, what possible difference can it make whether thought is conveyed by the press, or by sound-waves, or pictures? In each case, what is shackled is the human mind and, if the ideals of liberty mean anything, one form of tyranny is as indefensible as another. No medium of expression has the right to subvert orals or advocate treason, but existing law is ample to protect the public in these fields.

Within the life of all of us here assembled, two new media of expression have come into existence, which may prove more important in the development of the human mind than even the printing press. We live too close to them to appreciate their infinite potentialities. These two media are the greatest gifts in their potential usefulness that have been made in the lifetime of anyone now present.

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

What part does beauty play in the bridal trousseau—and what beauty preparations should go into the honeymoon travel kit? The bride may puzzle a little over this problem. For it is an important one, worthy of her best thought. Yet she need not worry a frown into her fair white brow, for beauty preparations are difficult to erase, and the beauty problem is, in reality not so hard as it seems.

The keynote of the honeymoon beauty kit should be simplicity. Only those things which are actually needed should find way into the bride's traveling bag, where each square inch of space is precious.

First come the prosaic toilet necessities—toothbrush and toothpaste (and I actually knew a bride who forgot her toothbrush) and mouth wash manicure accessories, and the other indispensable requisites. Then there are bath salts, bath soap, talcum or dusting powder, to be had in matching fragrance, if the bride is fastidious about her preference in perfumes. And the necessary creams, lotions and cosmetics.

These last present the real problem, for she will wish to take what she needs to keep her skin beautifully groomed and fresh. But she will not wish to take too many for fear that her husband will feel that her beauty is too dependent upon these artificial aids. And, too, they take up room.

There are for sale fitted leather cases and less expensive boxes which include in a dainty, well-packed arrangement just the preparations necessary for several weeks of use. And the charming array of their contents would please the most masculine of men by the mysterious, purely feminine quality of its appeal. These fitted cases and boxes (there are colored silk bags, too, some of them waterproof, which are likewise fitted) containing cleansing tissues, jars of cleansing and massage cream, hand cream, eye cream, a tonic lotion, a powder foundation, face powder, cream rouge and eye make-up.

In the interest of simplicity a bride may choose to abandon for the time being the liquid circulation stimulant, the eye lotion and rich nourishing cream which have their place in her usual beauty regime. But if she does not, they may be included, easily, in the honeymoon beauty box.

And the bride who is to travel during much of her honeymoon should have with her a washing preparation, more penetrative than an ordinary soap, to thoroughly remove the dust and dirt accompanying any land travel.

If she wishes to take very few beauty preparations and these limit herself to a washing preparation, a rich cleansing and massage cream, which she will also use as a hand cream, and a tonic astringent lotion.

These, with her cosmetics, will furnish a basis for a quick, refreshing facial treatment to be taken in those brief spaces when her husband is momentarily absent.

He will find her radiant and fresh upon his return.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Attorney General William D. Mitchell is the living image of a Y. M. C. A. secretary.

At 55, he is a little too old for one, but he does not look his years.

Y. M. C. A. secretaries are a distinct type. Individual secretaries differ from one another sufficiently to be told apart, but they all have certain characteristics in common, or, if there are exceptions, I never saw any—on business. I never saw any (on business) all the way from eastern Europe, in a westerly direction as far as Japan and China, and southwardly as far as Buenos Aires.

Attorney General Mitchell behind his half-acre desk—bigger than President Hoover's—at the study of governmental problems, it is difficult to see how there can be an educated vote.

If we devote our energies, not to shacking these new forms of activity, but to utilize them for the welfare of humanity, I can see a method of popular education which promises much for the future of democratic institutions. In utilizing these beneficent gifts to mankind, let us remember that the ideals of the fathers, the freedom of the press, which are guaranteed by the constitution, are, in the last analysis, the freedom of thought itself, and we must not emancipate one form of thought only to put the shackles of governmental oppression on another.

justice department, appears in striking contrast to John Garibaldi Sargent, who preceded him in the same swivel chair.

John G. Sargent was a huge bulk of an old man—heavy, cumbersome, slow—with dead, bovine eyes and the hesitant speech of an official who never had caught up with the enormous volume of work—who simply was struggling painfully along, dependent on subordinates—William D. Mitchell chief among them—to save him from capital errors until the welcome day when he would be free to retire.

Attorneys General Mitchell obviously enjoys his position. He is at some advantage. Promoted from the post of solicitor general, only one step lower than his present office—not to mention the fact that he virtually has been head of the department for two or three years past—his preparation has been ample.

However, the job would not have swamped him in any event. A tip-top trained-to-the-minute lawyer, with a long legal heritage smart as a whip, the admiration of the entire supreme bench for the soundness and clarity of his reasoning—he comes to his task "loaded for bear" with the heaviest ammunition.

Crisp, clear and decisive sound his orders to his assistants. There is no bluster about him. He knows his business and likes it. His eyes snap and sparkle behind his gold-bowed spectacles. His mind functions on all cylinders.

WILL YOU HELP ME?

My dear followers: For a change, I am going to reverse the tables, and tell you how I feel and ask you to help me.

I am suffering from a severe sense of depression. It is due to the knowledge that many thousands of you are going to feel that I have failed you, and to the fact that much valuable time is going to be lost by you before you go to a physician, while waiting to hear from me.

So many of you write, giving me your symptoms and asking for a diagnosis and suggestions of relief. So many of you write asking a personal answer or asking me to answer in the column within the next few days. And I can do neither!

Those of you who expect this service do not realize that it is impossible for a physician to diagnose a condition without a personal examination and a complete history of the case and, perhaps, laboratory work; and even though diagnosis and treatment could be given through the mail, I am not in medical practice in any way.

Those of you who expect an answer in the column within a few days, do not understand what writing syndicated health articles means, so I will tell you. First, it means that the column has to be written at least three weeks in advance to give sufficient time for printing, correction and distribution to the newspapers in various parts of the country. (So, even though a question could be answered the day it is received, it would be at least three weeks before it could appear in the newspapers.) A health service means some thousands of letters each week from readers. But only a few questions can be answered in the daily column. For this reason, very many have to be disappointed in getting an individual answer, even though the answer could appear.

Many of you who do not understand that certain questions cannot be answered in a newspaper column, largely (I'll have to say it) because of a false attitude of many readers. These complain to let me know of it. For instance: Some readers protested recently when I advised a woman to have lacerations from childbirth repaired! That advice might save thousands of women from cancer, but these lady-modest readers did not think of that, even though I mentioned it.

I can consider in the column only those questions which are of general interest, and this I ascertain from the number of requests to write on the subjects. A health feature should be as much more in the line of disease prevention. That is the reason I write so much on the importance of normal weight and the importance of exercise and diet.

I am unhappy because I cannot answer you all even briefly, either in the column or by personal letter. But now that you know the reasons, will you help me get over my depression by not asking for a diagnosis and not asking me to write on questions that cannot be considered in the column?

I am glad so many of you let me know that even though the service has to be limited, you have received great benefit from it.

Living and Loving

BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

Talk about women "holding" their husbands. Husbands have to step some to hold the wife these days. Let hubby be off the job for a while, thinking that keeping house and taking care of the children will keep the little woman busy and out of mischief, and he is doomed to a terrible awakening. More likely than not she's in love with his best friend and contemplating an elopement.

At least that's what I gather from some of the letters I get in which my advice is asked. Keeping everlastingly on the job is the only way to hold a wife these days. Always look your best, men, keep yourselves shaved and neat, bring in the good old dollars, keep pretty speeches always on tap and always be ready to step out with the wife; that is the price of continued matrimony.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I have been married 11 years. I have two children and love them dearly. My husband has not been able to do anything for me for the past ten years. Of course I know it is wrong, but I can't help it. I am a bit in love with a man about my age, and I am sure that he loves me. I believe if I could marry him he would be good to me and make me a good home. It certainly would be appreciated if you could give me any advice on this subject. A. P. D."

"Would a man also come for the children? And what would become of your husband? Is he ill or incapacitated in some way that he cannot take care of you? If so, of course your loyalty is to him. You promised to cherish him through "sickness and health, in poverty and riches." Didn't you? It never pays to go back on your word. Stand true as long as it is humanly possible, for if you don't you will always be haunted by your conscience and the new husband will feel that as you went back on one man he cannot trust you to be true to him.

NANCY: You did nothing wrong, Nancy. Your boy friend probably did not like the idea of your going sleigh riding with others. It is his place to apologize to you for being almost rude in not speaking when he met you. Let him do it and you have a good time until he gets over his "mad."

MIKE: I am afraid you will not take my advice, dear, which is to just be friendly with this boy you like and make no special effort to "win" him. He may wake up all of a sudden to what a nice little girl you are. And the same advice goes to all you little school girls who love a certain boy who pays no attention to you.

PUZZLED: Why not let the second boy friend go and correspond with the first one? Then if he wants to come to see you, and you find you still love him marry him and go with him.

"All right," said Mrs. Timkins, "he'll want it. He's going to be an undertaker."

PROOF POSITIVE

They were sitting together, and after a brief silence the pretty girl said:

"You seem very quiet tonight, Roland. Are you—are you sure you love me?"

"Why, good heavens, Rhoda, when we were saying goodbye at the gate last night, your dog bit a piece out of my leg, and I never even noticed it till I got home!"

A REUNITED FAMILY

Drake's family were overjoyed at meeting him.

As for Drake—the funny old fellow—he was so excited and so delighted at seeing every one of his large family safe and sound that he lost all his interest in the boy; in fact, he probably forgot that there ever had been a boy on the bank of the pond, and before Peter could say "Jack Robinson" his friend was in the air and surrounded by his quacking family. What a fuss they did make over him!

"Quick, quick, quick! Dear daddy, will you teach me to fly like you do? I nearly got lost because when I first started out made my wings go like this instead of so," Peter heard one young duck cry as he tried to show his father how the accident had happened.

"Here, youngster, stop that. Do you think you have the sky all to yourself? Don't flounder around like that. Remember there is a crowd of us here and keep your place, if you please."

"Mother, make Flirt-Tail quit. He nearly put my eye out," screamed another youngster.

"Suppose he did, that is no reason for you to almost knock my neck out of joint. Sharp-eye," scolded a third little duckling. "Keep out of my way, brother, or I'll teach you a lesson, and a good one, too, even if I am only a girl," declared a duckling smaller than any of the others but twice as lively, to judge from the way she was circling around them.

"Now, children, be quiet, all of you," quacked Mother Duck, soothingly. "Aren't you ashamed to start quarreling among yourselves when you have seen your father in such a long time? Besides, we are wasting time, my dear, are we not?" she turned to her husband. "When a storm starts traveling it doesn't take it long to reach a place, and we have not flown out in very much. Don't you feel how chilly the wind is growing? B-r-r! Just look at those scurrying clouds. Surely, husband, we had better be off."

Drake had been so busy flying to greet first one and then another of the flock to make sure that each was well and happy that he had neglected to watch the storm signals. Now the boy heard him give a startled quack.

"By my tail feathers, wife, you are right," said Daddy Drake. "We shall be caught at the fresh water pond unless we make haste. Do your duty, Herald. We'll leave on the second you give the signal."

At Drake's words the Herald soared into the air high above the storm and looked sharply about him in every direction. Evidently all was well. For "whish, whish," signaled he. And in an instant every duck rested at attention. Again came the signal and this time the flock were off, moving so quickly that they were out of sight in no time.

THE CHASTENING OF LOVE—For the Lord will not cast off forever: But though he cause grief, yet will he have compassion according to the multitude of his mercies. For he doth not afflict willingly, nor grieves the children of men.

NO FADS AND FANCIFUL THEORIES

In following the general policies of his administration, President Hoover keeps to the essence of his ideas and plans as they have been indicated heretofore in public utterances. Manifestly he purposes building largely upon the reconstructive foundations laid by Mr. Coolidge. Those who incline toward fads and fanciful theories of government and diplomacy will, therefore, find small comfort in what he says; those who believe in sound, forward looking methods have reason to be pleased.

The President cherishes definite ideas regarding the proper scope and limitation of government regulation of business. He draws a sharp distinction between the duty of government with respect to strictly private enterprise and public service corporations. He believes that government should be helpful to business, but there is no suggestion of state socialism in his program. Mr. Hoover approves earnestly everything that makes for international peace, and is optimistic regarding ultimate American adherence to the world court, but he is no pacifist in the current acceptance of the word, for he says, "Peace can be contributed to by respect for our ability in defense." Fresh from detailed study of relationships with Latin America, he asserts regarding the countries of South and Central America, "We wish only for the maintenance of their independence and the growth of their stability and prosperity," and so he disclaims any sympathy with "imperialism," so-called.

Toward the end of his discourse, Mr. Hoover says: "We do know what the attainments of these ideals should be: The preservation of self-government and its full foundations in local government; the perfection of justice, whether in economic or social fields; the maintenance of ordered liberty; the denial of domination by any group or class; the building up and preservation of equality of opportunity; the stimulation of initiative and individuality; absolute integrity in public affairs; the choice of officials for fitness to office; the direction of economic progress toward prosperity and the further lessening of poverty; the freedom of public opinion; the sustaining of education, and of the advancement of knowledge the growth of religious spirit and the tolerance of all faiths; the strengthening of the home; the advancement of peace."

And this, we take it, is the confession of national faith of the new President of these United States. It is a good one for everybody to adopt and keep in sight.

Attorney General Mitchell behind his half-acre desk—bigger than President Hoover's—at the study of governmental problems, it is difficult to see how there can be an educated vote.

If we devote our energies, not to shattering these new forms of activity, but to utilizing them for the welfare of humanity, I can see a method of popular education which promises much for the future of democratic institutions.

In utilizing these beneficial gifts to mankind, let us remember that the ideals of the fathers, the freedom of speech and the freedom of the press, which are guaranteed by the constitution, are, in the last analysis, the freedom of thought itself, and we must not enslave one form of thought only to put the shackles of governmental oppression on another.

origins" problem?

John G. Sargent, now known for the government to lease upon application.

"Yes," says Mitchell instantly, "my answer's gone to the president. It wouldn't be etiquette for me to give it out. It will be announced from the White House."

What oil lands is it mandatory for the government to lease upon application?

"That's interior department information."

What names are up for federal judgeships?

"Ask Mr. So-and-Go for the list. He'll give it to you."

If Attorney General Mitchell answers, "I can't say," he means "I won't say." There is nothing he "can't say" connected with the justice department.

Out of all the members of the new cabinet, I would guess that Attorney General Mitchell is the one likeliest to talk back to President Hoover. They are a pretty meek lot, in general. Y. M. C. A. secretaries are afraid of nobody. If they have to contradict they do it in a nice way—but firmly.

And I would imagine it would make a hit with Mr. Hoover.

Only the "progressives" are a trifle skeptical of Attorney General Mitchell, and not even they are so much so. He is a brain power. As the railroad brotherhoods' organ "Labor"—a very "progressive" publication—expresses it:

"His ability is conceded, but his friendship for 'Big Business' is also conceded."

Cheese and Rice Croquettes—Make a thick white sauce of one cup of milk, one-fourth cup of butter and one-third cup of flour. Add one cup grated parmesan cheese and stir until melted. Season with salt, pepper and a dash of paprika. Cool, mix with two cups cold boiled rice and shape into balls. Roll in bread crumbs and dip in a slightly-beaten egg, diluted with two tablespoons water. Roll in crumbs again and fry in deep fat.

It can be finished with a fudge frosting. Bake one-half cup unsweetened cocoa, one and one-half cups confectioner's sugar, one-third teaspoon salt, and blend together. Cook seven or eight minutes, being careful not to burn.

Diet and Health

BY LULU HUNT PETERS, M.D., AUTHOR OF "DIET AND HEALTH" AND "DIET FOR CHILDREN"

WILL YOU HELP ME?

My dear followers:
For a change, I am going to reverse the tables, and tell you how I feel and ask you to help me.

I am suffering from a severe sense of depression. It is due to the knowledge that many thousands of you are going to feel that I have failed you, and to the fact that much valuable time is going to be lost by your waiting to go to a physician, while waiting to hear from me.

So many of you write, giving me your symptoms and asking for a diagnosis and suggestions of relief. So many of you write asking a personal answer or asking me to answer in the column within the next few days. And I can do neither!

Those of you who expect this service do not realize that it is impossible for a physician to diagnose a condition without a personal examination and a complete history of the case and perhaps laboratory work; and even though diagnosis and treatment could be given through the mail, I am not in medical practice in any way.

Those of you who expect an answer in the column within a few days, do not understand what writing syndicated health articles means, so I will tell you. First, it means that the column has to be written at least three weeks in advance to give sufficient time for printing, correction and distribution to the newspapers in various parts of the country. (So, even though a question could be answered the day it is received, it would be at least three weeks before it could appear in the newspapers.) A health service means some thousands of letters each week from readers. But only a few questions can be answered in the daily column. For this reason, very many have to be disappointed in getting individual answers, even though the answer could appear.

Many of you who do not understand that certain questions cannot be answered in a newspaper column, largely (I'll have to say it) because of a false attitude of many readers. These complain to their editors, who in turn have to let me know of it. For instance: Some readers protested recently when I advised a woman to have lacerations from childbirth repaired! That advice might save thousands of women from cancer, but these falsely-modest readers did not think of that, even though I mentioned it.

I can consider in the column only those questions which are of general interest, and this I ascertain from the number of requests to write on the subjects. A health feature should be, as mine is, within the line of disease prevention. That is the reason I write so much on the importance of normal weight and the importance of exercise and diet.

I am unhappy because I cannot answer you all even briefly, either in the column or by personal letter. But now that you know the reasons, will you help me get over my depression by not asking for a diagnosis and not asking me to write on questions that cannot be considered in the column?

I am glad so many of you let me know that even though the service has to be limited, you have received great benefit from it.

Editor's Note: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose, nor give personal advice. Your questions, if of general interest, will be answered in the column, in turn. Requests for articles must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope and 2 cents in coin for postage. For the pamphlet on reducing and gaining, 10 cents in coin, with fully self-addressed, stamped envelope, must be enclosed. Address Dr. Peters, in care of this paper.

Living and Loving

BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

Talk about women "holding" their husbands! Husbands have to tie up some of the wife these days. Let hubby be off the job for a while, thinking that keeping house and taking care of the children will keep the little woman busy and out of mischief, and he is doomed to a terrible awakening. More likely than not, she's in love with his best friend and contemplating an elopement.

At least that's what I gather from some of the letters I get in which my advice is asked. Keep it interestingly on the job is the only way to hold a wife these days. Always look your best, men, keep yourselves shaved and neat, bring in the good old dollars, keep pretty speeches always on tap and always be ready to step out with the wife; that is the price of continued matrimony.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I have been married 11 years. I have two children and love them dearly. My husband has not been able to do anything for me for the past ten years. Of course I know it is wrong, but I can't help it. I am 31 and in love with a man about my age, and I am sure that he loves me. I believe if I could marry him he would be good to me and make me a good home. It certainly would be appreciated if you could give me any advice on this subject. A. P. D."

"Would this man also care for the children? And what would become of your husband? Is he ill or incapacitated in some way that he cannot take care of you? If so, of course your loyalty is to him. You promised to cherish him through sickness and health, in poverty and riches, didn't you? It never pays to go back on your word. Stand true as long as it is humanly possible, but if you don't, you will never be haunted by your conscience and the new husband will feel that as you went back on one man he cannot trust you to be true to him."

NANCY: You did nothing wrong, Nancy. Your boy friend probably did not like the idea of your going sleigh riding with others. It is his place to apologize to you for being alone and in not speaking when he met you. Let him do it and you have a good time until he gets over his "mad."

MIKE: I am afraid you will not take my advice, dear, which is to just be friendly with this boy you like and make no special effort to "win" him. He may wake up all of a sudden to what a nice little girl you are. And the same advice goes to all you little school girls who love a certain boy who pays no attention to you.

PUZZLED: Why not let the second boy friend go and correspond with the first one? Then if he wants to come to see you, and you find you still love him marry him and go with him.

DINNER STORIES
A PROFESSIONAL NEED
Mrs. Timkins was taking her son to school for the first time, and, after impressing the school master with the necessity of his having a thorough education, finished up by saying: "And be sure he learns Latin."

"But, my dear madam," said the master, "Latin is a dead language."

"All right," said Mrs. Timkins. "He'll want it. He's going to be an undertaker."

PROOF POSITIVE
They were sitting together, and after a brief silence the pretty girl said:

"You seem very quiet tonight, Roland. Are you—very sure you are sure you don't love me?"

"Love you?" Roland exclaimed. "Why, good heavens, Rhoda, when we were saying goodbye at the gate last night, your dog bit a piece out of my leg, and I never even noticed it till I got home!"

Peter's Adventures

BY MRS. FLORENCE VINCENT

A REUNITED FAMILY
Drake's family were overjoyed at meeting him.

As for Drake—the funny old fellow—he was so excited and so delighted at seeing every one of his large family safe and sound that he lost all his interest in the boy; in fact, he probably forgot that there ever had been a boy on the bank of the pond, and before Peter could say "Jack Robinson" his friend was in the air and surrounded by his quacking family. What a fuss they did make over him!

"Quack, quack, quack! Dear daddy, will you teach me to fly?"

"Why, yes, I will," said Daddy Drake. "We shall be taught at the fresh water pond unless we make haste. Do your duty, Herald. We'll leave on the second you give the signal."

At Drake's words the Herald soared into the air high above the stork and looked sharply about him in every direction. "Evidently," he was well. For "Whistling," he signaled. And in an instant every duck rucked at attention. Again came the signal and this time the flock were off, moving so quickly that they were out of sight in no time.

When is an amateur not an amateur? The Amateur Athletic Union, is beginning to open its eyes and "the old amateur game" appears to be in for a little close scrutiny. The Union has suspicions, perhaps well founded, that the simon-pur-ity of some of our better known athletes would stand some questioning.

The boys and girls—ostensibly amateurs—are being called on the carpet. Meaning the so-called non-professionals who have been wintering at luxurious southern resorts without apparent means of livelihood, at the same time appearing in various kinds of exhibition contests at which admission is charged.

For once, at least, it is not too much to say that the A. A. U. is not being too technical and that the organization which has often opened its mouth only to put its foot into it, is doing right by our Nell.

It is high time to call a halt. People are beginning to whisper. They are beginning talk down at Miami Beach and other winter playgrounds and ask these questions:

"Is it possible that although appearing in meets with professional athletes, these swimmers and divers still remain amateurs in good standing? What constitutes a professional? How does he differ from an amateur? Are they in it for the sake of the sport alone? Do they do it for fun? And how, without working or other visible means of support, can they put up at expensive hotels in the winter?"

These questions are of course easily answered. It is obvious that an expense account will cover a broad-minded conscience. But it is shady business to say the least and amateurism is being given a bad name. It is after all just as well that the A. A. U., the controlling body of amateur sport, give the boys and girls under its jurisdiction a good talking, in the place where it is ready to say that its athletes must not accept expense money for public appearances but to do so they must first obtain permission from the parent organization.

In other words, if you must cheat, at least ask permission.

Jack Dempsey, the one-time Manassas Mauler, is probably through as a boxer but he is just getting started in the field of promoting big boxing shows. Dempsey did not start at the bottom of the ladder in the promoting game. After he was assigned the big task of promoting the recent fight between W. L. Stribling and Jack Sharkey at Miami Beach, Fla., he immediately lost any ambitions he may have had to re-enter the ring.

It was a tough job—no denying that. Jack himself frankly admits that he never had the faintest idea that the late Tex Rickard's specialty had so many difficulties. But now that he knows better, he is satisfied that promoting is his forte. In any event Dempsey's services are now in such demand that he will stick to promoting.

All indications point to a successful career for him in this line of endeavor left vacant by Rickard and the prediction is being freely made in many quarters that Jack the Giant Killer will capably fill the shoes of the man who made Madison Square Garden famous.

ST. XAVIER MEETS CHICAGO HIGH TEAM

CHICAGO, March 22.—Ten games were scheduled in today's play in the national Catholic basketball tournament.

The feature game of the day was between St. Xavier of Cincinnati and De LaSalle of Joliet, Ill.

Last night's games were featured by De LaSalle of Chicago's victory over Rockhurst High School of Kansas City, 22-2. The Missouri team did not score a single field goal.

Another feature game of today was to be played between Creighton University High, Omaha, Neb., and Catholic High of Decatur, Ind.

STIVERS ASKS PERMISSION TO ENTER NATIONAL TOURNAMENT

COLUMBUS, O., March 22.—Ohio may still be represented in the national high school basketball tournament to be held at Chicago April 1, 2 and 3.

Dayton Stivers, winner of the state championship for the second straight year, has requested the board of control of the state high school athletic association for permission to enter the annual meet sponsored by the University of Chicago and the board has called a meeting for tomorrow to act upon the matter.

The rule which declares the season shall end on the day of the state tournament became effective January 15 and was recently approved by the board.

The champions see a possible loophole in the fact a similar ruling which was passed by the national high school athletic association does not become effective until September 1, 1929.

Another matter to be taken up by the board is the participation of St. Xavier High School of Cincinnati in the National Catholic tournament at Loyola University,

Baseball Puzzlers

By CHARLEY BARRETT

Big League Scout Writing for Central Press and The Gazette

There are a lot of laughs in baseball, particularly in minor league baseball. The scout is often sentenced to weeks at a time in making the tours of the sticks and the amusing situations that come up help to compensate for the inconveniences of this type of traveling.

When the Cardinals were bringing out Jim Bottomley they sent him to Mitchell in the Dakota league. As a matter of fact, he played ninety-seven games with Mitchell and I kept an eye on him during the 1929 season.

It is windy up in that country, even on the nicest days. The outfielders learn to gauge the breeze as part of the game, but sometimes they get crossed up and the batters get the benefit of unearned extra base hits.

I was there one day keeping an eye on the awkward Bottomley, who already was showing signs of promise. The wind was blowing at a lively rate, but the pitching was unusually good for that league and the score was tied.

In about the eighth inning the Mitchell club got a man on third base with one out. The next batter raised a short fly to left, too short for the runner to score if the throw was anywhere near the plate. But the coach decided to take a chance and send him in.

As the ball descended it was caught by a gust of wind and instead of landing in the fielder's glove came down squarely on the top of his skull. Down went the outfielder like he had been hit with an axe and up went the ball.

Of course the base runner cut for home, but the laughable part of the play came when the stricken outfielder, stretched on his back, caught the ball on his descent before it hit the ground. He followed with a throw to third and the players immediately demanded that the runner be declared out for leaving the bag before the ball was caught.

The umpire agreed and permitted the double play. This was about as laughable a situation and as queer a play as might turn up.

LAUGHRAN TRAINS FOR WALKER BOUT

CHICAGO, March 22.—Rapidly taking off weight, Tommy Laughran, lightweight boxing champion, today virtually was assured he will scale less than the 175 pound weight limit when he meets Mickey Walker here March 28.

Tommy now is down to 179 pounds and he believes he will weigh around 174 when he starts the championship fight. He is going through strenuous training with several sparring partners daily.

STIVERS ASKS PERMISSION TO ENTER NATIONAL TOURNAMENT

CHICAGO, March 22.—St. Xavier has survived the first round of play in the tournament. Under the present ruling Commissioner H. R. Townsend denied St. Vincent High School of Akron permission to enter the meet.

The board is composed of S. A. Rowe, Cleveland; Walter Poebles, Cincinnati; S. O. Mose, Dover; R. S. Madison, Findlay; Lester Black, Newark and E. S. Holt, Piquette.

CHAMPIONS OF GRADE SCHOOL COURT LEAGUE

McKinley 6B basketball quintet recently won the championship of the second annual Intra-City Grade School Basketball League and was proclaimed grade school champions of the city for 1929.

By virtue of its 25 to 5 victory over Spring Hill fifth grade in the league finals, the 6B team replaced Spring Hill sixth graders as league champions and acquired possession of a silver loving cup for one year. The title must be won three years, however, before the trophy becomes the permanent possession of a team.

Three members of the team, Captain James Batson and Ernest McDufford, forwards, and William Dudley, a guard, won places on the first mythical all-city team.

During the regular league season the champions won five straight games and were unbeaten.

S. H. Hurley, janitor of McKinley building, made the boys a handsome mahogany case to hold the cup.

Bowling

Aided by the brilliant bowling of Lee Regan, the Bulcks narrowed the gap separating them from second place in the Recreation League to one full game by winning two out of three games from the Lang Transfers Thursday night. Regan had a three-game total of 661, including games of 192, 214 and 255. Whittington rolled almost as well for the losers, turning in a series of 642. He got away to a bad start, rolling 141, but came back with games of 241 and 257. Box score:

When is an amateur not an amateur? The Amateur Athletic Union, is beginning to open its eyes and "the old amateur game" appears to be in for a little close scrutiny. The Union has suspicions, perhaps well founded, that the simon-purty of some of our better known athletes would stand some questioning.

The boys and girls—ostensibly amateurs—are being called on the carpet. Meaning the so-called non-professionals who have been wintering at luxurious southern resorts without apparent means of livelihood, at the same time appearing in various kinds of exhibition contests at which admission is charged.

For once, at least, it is not too much to say that the A. A. U. is not being too technical and that the organization which has often opened its mouth only to put its foot into it, is doing right by our Nell.

It is high time to call a halt. People are beginning to whisper. They are beginning to talk down at Miami Beach and other winter playgrounds and ask these questions:

"Is it possible that although appearing in meets with professional, these swimmers and divers can still remain amateurs in good standing. What constitutes a professional? How does he differ from an amateur? Are they in it for the sake of the sport alone? Do they do it for fun? And how, without working or other visible means of support, can they put up at expensive hotels in the winter?"

These questions are of course easily answered. It is obvious that an expense account will cover a broad-minded conscience. But it is shady business to say the least and amateurism is being given a bad name. It is after all just as well that the A. A. U., the controlling body of amateur sport, give the boys and girls under its jurisdiction a good talking to.

The A. A. U. is not at the place where it is ready to say that its athletes must not accept expense money for public appearances but to do so they must first obtain permission from the parent organization.

In other words, if you must cheat, at least ask permission.

Jack Dempsey, the one-time Manassa Mauler, is probably through as a boxer but he is just getting started in the field of promoting big boxing shows. Dempsey did not start at the bottom of the ladder in the promoting game. After he was assigned the big task of promoting the recent fight between W. L. Stribling and Jack Sharkey at Miami Beach, Fla., he immediately lost any ambitions he may have had to re-enter the ring. It was a tough job—no denying that. Jack himself frankly admits that he never had the faintest idea that the late Tex Rickard's specialty had so many difficulties. But now that he knows better, he is satisfied that promoting is his forte in any event. Dempsey's services are now in such demand that he will stick to promoting.

All indications point to a successful career for him in this line of endeavor left vacant by Rickard and the prediction is being freely made in many quarters that Jack the Giant Killer will capably fill the shoes of the man who made Madison Square Garden famous.

ST. XAVIER MEETS CHICAGO HIGH TEAM

CHICAGO, March 22.—Ten games were scheduled in today's play in the national Catholic basketball tournament.

The feature game of the day was between St. Xavier of Cincinnati and De LaSalle of Joliet, Ill.

Last night's games were featured by De LaSalle of Chicago's victory over Rockhurst High School of Kansas City, 22-2. The Missouri team did not score a single field goal.

Another feature game of today was to be played between Creighton University High, Omaha, Neb., and Catholic High of Decatur, Ind.

STIVERS ASKS PERMISSION TO ENTER NATIONAL TOURNAMENT

COLUMBUS, O., March 22.—Ohio may still be represented in the national high school basketball tournament to be held at Chicago April 1, 2 and 3.

Dayton Stivers, winner of the state championship for the second straight year, has requested the board of control of the state high school athletic association for permission to enter the annual meet sponsored by the University of Chicago and the board has called a meeting for tomorrow to act upon the matter.

The rule which declares the season shall end on the day of the state tournament became effective January 15 and was recently approved by the board.

The champions see a possible loop hole in the fact a similar ruling which was passed by the national high school athletic association does not become effective until September 1, 1929.

Another matter to be taken up by the board is the participation of St. Xavier High School of Cincinnati in the National Catholic tournament at Loyola University,

Baseball Puzzlers

By CHARLEY BARRETT

Big League Scout Writing for Central Press and The Gazette

There are a lot of laughs in baseball, particularly in minor league baseball. The scout is often sent to weeks at a time in making the tours of the sticks and the amusing situations that come up help to compensate for the inconveniences of this type of traveling.

When the Cardinals were bringing out Jim Bottomley they sent him to Mitchell in the Dakota league. As a matter of fact, he played ninety-seven games with Mitchell and I kept an eye on him during the 1929 season.

It is windy up in that country, even on the nicest days. The outfielders learn to gauge the breeze as part of the game, but sometimes they get crossed up and the batters get the benefit of unearned extra base hits.

I was there one day keeping an eye on the awkward Bottomley, who already was showing signs of promise. The wind was blowing at a lively rate, but the pitching was unusually good for that league and the score was tied.

In about the eighth inning the Mitchell club got a man on third base with one out. The next batter raised a short fly to left, too short for the runner to score if the throw was anywhere near the plate. But the coach decided to take a chance and send him in.

As the ball descended it was caught by a gust of wind and instead of landing in the fielder's glove came down squarely on the top of his skull. Down went the outfielder like he had been hit with an axe and up went the ball.

Of course the base runner cut for home, but the laughable part of the play came when the stricken outfielder, stretched on his back, caught the ball on its descent before it hit the ground. He followed with a throw to third and the players immediately demanded that the runner be declared out for leaving the bag before the ball was caught.

The umpire agreed and permitted the double play. This was about as laughable a situation and as queer a play as might turn up.

LAUGHRAN TRAINS FOR WALKER BOUT

CHICAGO, March 22.—Rapidly taking off weight, Tommy Laughran, lightweight boxing champion, today virtually was assured he will scale less than the 175 pound weight limit when he meets Mickey Walker here March 28.

Tommy now is down to 179 pounds and he believes he will weigh around 174 when he starts the championship fight. He is going through strenuous training with several sparring partners daily.

Chicago. St. Xavier has survived the first round of play in the tournament.

Under the present ruling Commissioner H. R. Townsend denied St. Vincent High School of Akron permission to enter the meet.

The board is composed of: A. L. Rowe, Cleveland; Walter Peebles, Cincinnati; S. O. Mose, Dover; R. S. Madison, Findlay; Lester Black, Newark and E. S. Holt, Piquette.

CHAMPIONS OF GRADE SCHOOL COURT LEAGUE

McKinley 6B basketball quintet recently won the championship of the second annual Intra-City Grade School Basketball League and was proclaimed grade school champions of the city for 1929.

By virtue of its 25 to 5 victory over Spring Hill fifth grade in the league finals, the 6B team replaced Spring Hill sixth graders as league champions and acquired possession of a silver loving cup for one year. The title must be won three years, however, before the trophy becomes the permanent possession of a team.

Three members of the team, Captain James Batson and Ernest McDufford, forwards, and William Dudley, a guard, won places on the first mythical all-city team.

During the regular league season the champions won five straight games and were unbeaten.

S. H. Hurley, janitor of McKinley building, made the boys a handsome mahogany case to hold the cup.

Bowling

Aided by the brilliant bowling of Lee Regan, the Buicks narrowed the gap separating them from second place in the Recreation League to one full game by winning two out of three games from the Lang Transfers Thursday night. Regan had a three-game total of 661, including games of 192, 214 and 255.

Whittington rolled almost as well for the losers, turning in a series of 642. He got away to a bad start, rolling 114, but came back with games of 241 and 257. Box score:

WOOD LOSES RACE
BUT PROVES SPEED

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 22.—Gar Wood, premier American speed boat driver who yesterday lost his international challenge race title to Major H. O. D. Segrave of England, today will attempt to set a new world speed mark with "Miss America VII."

Segrave's "Miss England" was badly damaged in the two heats of the challenge race that the boat will be in no shape to make two speed trials today, he announced.

The American, although defeated on points by the English boat, won a moral victory and demonstrated that "Miss America VII" is faster than "Miss England."

Wood's craft was a dozen lengths ahead of the challenger Wednesday when a steering quadrant broke and forced him to retire, and yesterday Wood literally raced rings around Segrave.

The American entry finished nearly two laps—or four miles—ahead, averaging 61.272 miles an hour for the 12-mile heat compared with an average of less than 43 miles an hour for the delicate "Miss England."

Wood will send his boat out today in an attempt to lower his own world's record of 92 miles an hour. The attempt will be made over a measured mile course on the waters of Indian Creek.

TWO CONFESS TO MURDER IN DAYTON

Harrod and Shanks named each other as the killer.

Harrod admitted ownership of the gun used.

A special session of the grand jury will be called to review the case.

STANDARD OIL MAY PURCHASE
TRINITY M. E. CHURCH SITE

The Standard Oil Co. is negotiating for the purchase of the Trinity Methodist-Episcopal Church property at Main and Monroe Sts., it was disclosed Friday, and representatives of the company are expected in Xenia soon in an effort to close the deal.

Nothing definite has been announced, however, and one board member of the church disclosed that the negotiations at present have hardly reached even a tentative stage.

In the event the transaction is completed, it is considered likely that a new church would be built, although the possibility of a consolidation with the First M. E. Church here also has support among some members of the congregation.

It is estimated that needed repairs to the church would cost approximately $5,000.

Trinity Church was erected in 1874. In that year the First M. E. Church, then commonly called the Second St. Church, had become so large it was thought expedient to organize another Methodist Church in this city. A board of trustees was appointed from the membership of the First M. E. Church congregation and Trinity was built.

The actual organization of the second church was effected November 14, 1883 at its present location. The church and adjoining parsonage of Trinity congregation were constructed of brick with dressed stone trimmings at an approximate cost of $35,000.

The most cordial relations and heartiest co-operation have always existed from the first between the mother church and Trinity.

EXPERT HERE

E. J. Meinhardt, of Chicago, the well-known Rupture Shield Expert will personally be at the Miami Hotel, Dayton, Ohio, on Tuesday and Wednesday, March 26th and 27th, from 10:00 a. m. to 4:00 p. m. daily.

NOTICE—Only gentlemen are invited to call at this time as special arrangements will be announced later for women and children.

Mr. Meinhardt says: "The Rupture Shield" will not only retain the Rupture perfectly, but it exercises and strengthens the weakened muscles—thereby contracting the opening, in 10 days on the average case, usually giving instantaneous relief, withstanding all strain regardless of the size or location of the Rupture.

"The Meinhardt Rupture Shield" has no understraps. It is also perfectly sanitary and practically indestructible and can be worn while bathing.

Ruptures often cause Stomach Troubles, Backache, Constipation, Nervousness and other ailments which promptly disappear after the Rupture is properly retained.

Please do not write asking for literature or to be fitted by mail, as this is impossible. Every case must be seen personally; therefore I visit this section from time to time. There is no charge for demonstration.

SPECIAL NOTICE—All customers that I have fitted here during the past five years are invited to call for inspection for which there will be no charge.

Please note the above dates and office hours carefully. Business demands prevent stopping at any other city in this section. (This visit is for white people only.)—E. J. Meinhardt, Home Office, 1551 N. Crawford Avenue, Chicago.—Adv.

WOOD LOSES RACE BUT PROVES SPEED

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 22.—Gar Wood, premier American speed boat driver who yesterday lost his international challenge race title to Major H. O. D. Segrave of England, today will attempt to set a new world speed mark with "Miss America VII."

Segrave's "Miss America VII" was badly damaged in the two heats of the challenge race that the boat will be in no shape to make two speed trials today, he announced.

The American, although defeated on points by the English boat, won a moral victory and demonstrated that "Miss America VII" is faster than "Miss England."

Wood's craft was a dozen lengths ahead of the challenger Wednesday when a steering quadrant broke and forced him to retire, and yesterday Wood literally raced rings around Segrave.

The American entry finished nearly two laps—or four miles—ahead, averaging 61.272 miles an hour for the 12-mile heat compared with an average of less than 43 miles an hour for the delicate "Miss England."

Wood will send his boat out today in an attempt to lower his own world's record of 92 miles an hour. The attempt will be made over a measured mile course on the waters of Indian Creek.

TWO CONFESS TO MURDER IN DAYTON

DAYTON, O., March 22.—Josepha Paul Harrod, 26, and Floyd Shanks, 21, confessed today they held up Jacob Freeman, merchant, last Saturday night and killed him.

Harrod and Shanks named each other as the killer.

Harrod admitted ownership of the gun used.

A special session of the grand jury will be called to review the case.

WOMAN INDICTED

CANTON, O., March 22.—Mrs. Mamie Guerrieri who shot and killed the Rev. Fr. Joseph A. Riccardi here March 16, has been indicted on charges of first degree murder.

The woman claims she shot the priest because he attacked her small daughter. Examination of the child failed to bear out the charges.

SUE BUS COMPANY

NORWALK, O., March 22.—William Houghtby, and wife, Eleanor Houghtby, of Detroit, ask a total of $40,000 in suits filed here against the Greyhound Bus Company and the L. S. E. Railway.

Mrs. Houghtby was injured in the crossing disaster near Bellevue in which nineteen lost their lives.

Watch for this danger signal—a dirty ring around the washtubs

HAVE you seen it in your washtubs? Of course you have! Do you know what it means? Of course you know that it means the washing has been done in hard water. Soap combined with the hardness and made scum. The scum collected dirt, some went into the clothes, some formed the dirty ring.

Soften hard water with Melo and it becomes a wonderful cleaner, with or without soap. No dirty ring! White clothes! Soap saved, from 1/3 to 1/2 the amount ordinarily used. Use Melo wherever you need soft water. Notice how much more effective the soap is! Get Melo at your grocer's.

STANDARD OIL MAY PURCHASE TRINITY M. E. CHURCH SITE

The Standard Oil Co. is negotiating for the purchase of the Trinity Methodist-Episcopal Church property at Main and Monroe Sts. It was disclosed Friday, and representatives of the company are expected in Xenia soon in an effort to close the deal.

Nothing definite has been announced, however, and one board member of the church disclosed that the negotiations at present have hardly reached even a tentative stage.

In the event the transaction is completed, it is considered likely that a new church would be built, although the possibility of a consolidation with the first M. E. Church here also has support among some members of the congregation.

It is estimated that needed repairs to the church would cost approximately $5,000.

SHOP IS CLOSED

A barber shop operated by Charles Kafory on W. Main St., was closed this week in order to provide space for the feed store owned by Ed. Lauman, which has reopened at that location. The Kafory barber shop was moved to the W. Main St. location several months ago from the Atlas Hotel lobby. Mr. Kafory has taken a position at the Ed. Wood barber shop instead of at Wilmington.

TRAIN KILLS ONE

BEREA, March 22.—Walter Adams, 58, Berea real estate dealer and Charles Newton, 66, Beebe-town farmer, were in Community Hospital here today with injuries suffered in an accident that cost the life of Harvey Hodgman, 47. The three men were riding in Adams' auto when it was hit by a Baltimore and Ohio train at Beebe-town.

1874. In that year the First M. E. Church, then commonly called the Second St. Church, had become so large it was thought expedient to organize another Methodist Church in this city. A board of trustees was appointed from the membership of the First M. E. Church congregation and Trinity was built.

The actual organization of the second church was effected November 11, 1883 at its present location. The church and adjoining parsonage of Trinity congregation were constructed of brick with dressed stone trimmings at an approximate cost of $35,000.

The most cordial relations and heartiest co-operation have always existed from the first between the mother church and Trinity.

HELPLESSNESS OF PUBLIC WORSHIP

Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick says, "Public worship can be exhilarating, exalting, cleansing and ennobling. It causes people who have been looking down to look up. It represents life, redirects energy, freshens ideals, restores equilibrium and liberates spiritual resources."

"The churches are still the reservoirs of moral enthusiasm and serious ethical interest to a degree not true of any other institution. The pulpit is one of the most crucial points in the whole line of civilization's advance."

Creamed Comments On S. S. Lesson

The conviction of the truth of immortality leads to earnest striving here, that we may lay a good foundation in character for the endless years. Those who have no faith in immortality have no hope or gladness in this world and are most miserable when facing death.

Vs. 1-3. "But on the first day of the week, they came unto the tomb, they found the stone rolled away, they entered in and found not the body of the Lord Jesus."

The faithful women, last at the cross, first at the tomb, were bewildered and crushed thinking death had claimed their Lord whose memory they would cherish; they were greatly surprised to find an empty tomb and naturally the question arose in their minds, "Why empty?"

V. 4. "And while they were perplexed, behold, two men stood by them in dazzling apparel." The great truths of the birth of Christ and his resurrection were announced by angels; here are two places where God speaks in an unusual way and unusual messengers are needed.

V. 5. "And as they were affrighted, they entered in and found not the body of the Lord Jesus."

ed and bowed down their faces on the earth, they said unto them, why seek ye the living among the dead?" The presence of supernatural beings causes terror among men because of their purity, majesty and power. "The living one" implied Christ's resurrection.

V. 6. "He is not here, but is arisen; remember how he spake unto ye when he was yet in Galilee." His resurrection verifies his statements of truth. His death and resurrection was a part of God's program provided and foreseen from the beginning. We ought to remember well all that Christ has said.

V. 8. "And they returned from the tomb, and told all these things to the eleven and to all the rest." Good news is good only as it is told to others. We have received the same good news and we owe it to others to tell the story of Christ's life, death and resurrection.

V. 11. "These words appeared in their sight as idle talk; these disbelieved them." The disciples were unbelievers for a time because the miracle of Christ who was pronounced dead and was now alive was so profound that it could not be comprehended at first. How could it be? But it is true, even though not explained by science.

V. 12. "But Peter arose and ran into the tomb; and he departed to his home, wondering at that which had come to pass." Peter disbelieved, but he was willing to be convinced of the truth by looking the facts fairly in the face.

V. 1. "Let not your heart be troubled; believe in God, believe also in me." Death brings trouble—faith in God and in Christ brings resignation.

V. 2. "In my father's house are many mansions; I go to prepare a place for you." There must be a place for the resurrected body, Christ's and ours.

V. 3. "And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and receive you unto myself that where I am there ye may be also." Love is not satisfied without the fellowship of friends. To be a friend of Christ is a great achievement, the higher goal. The path to heaven is the "way, the truth and the life," as revealed by Christ.

V. 4. "What evidences today of Jesus' life and power?"

5. What relation will the life hereafter have to our present life?

6. How does the Bible teach of heaven?

Dr. J. H. Jowett says that some of the characteristic glories of life in heaven will be a life of rest, a life of quest, a life of service, a life of wondrous communion, a life of fellowship with God.

LESSON PRAYER
"We thank thee, O Lord, for the hope of immortality in the assurance of a resurrection morning. We praise thee for a heavenly home where we shall meet again those we have loved and lost awhile."

The Church Invites You

HELPFULNESS OF PUBLIC WORSHIP

Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick says, "Public worship can be exhilarating, exalting, cleansing and ennobling. It causes people who have been looking down to look up. It represents life, redirects energy, freshens ideals, restores equilibrium and liberates spiritual resources."

"The churches are still the reservoirs of moral enthusiasm and serious ethical interest to a degree not true of any other institution. The pulpit is one of the most crucial points in the whole line of civilization's advance."

Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY?—D. Carl Yoder.

ed and bowed down their faces on the earth, they said unto them, why seek ye the living among the dead? The presence of supernatural beings causes terror among men because of their purity, majesty and power. "The living one" implied Christ's resurrection.

V. 6. "He is not here, but is arisen; remember how he spake unto ye when he was yet in Galilee." His resurrection verifies his statements of truth. His death and resurrection was a part of God's program provided and foreseen from the beginning. We ought to remember well all that Christ has said.

V. 8. "And they returned from the tomb, and told all these things to the eleven and to all the rest." Good news is good only as it is told to others. We have received the same good news and we owe it to others to tell the story of Christ's life, death and resurrection.

V. 11. "These words appeared in their sight as idle talk; these disciples were unbelievers for a time because the miracle of Christ who was pronounced dead and was now alive was so profound that it could not be comprehended at first. How could it be? But it is true, even though not explained by science."

V. 12. "But Peter arose and ran into the tomb; and he departed to his home, wondering at that which had come to pass." Peter disbelieved, but he was willing to be convinced of the truth by looking the facts fairly in the face.

SUITS FOR MATRONS HAVE CHARM AND DIGNITY; THOSE FOR THE MAIDS HAVE CHIC

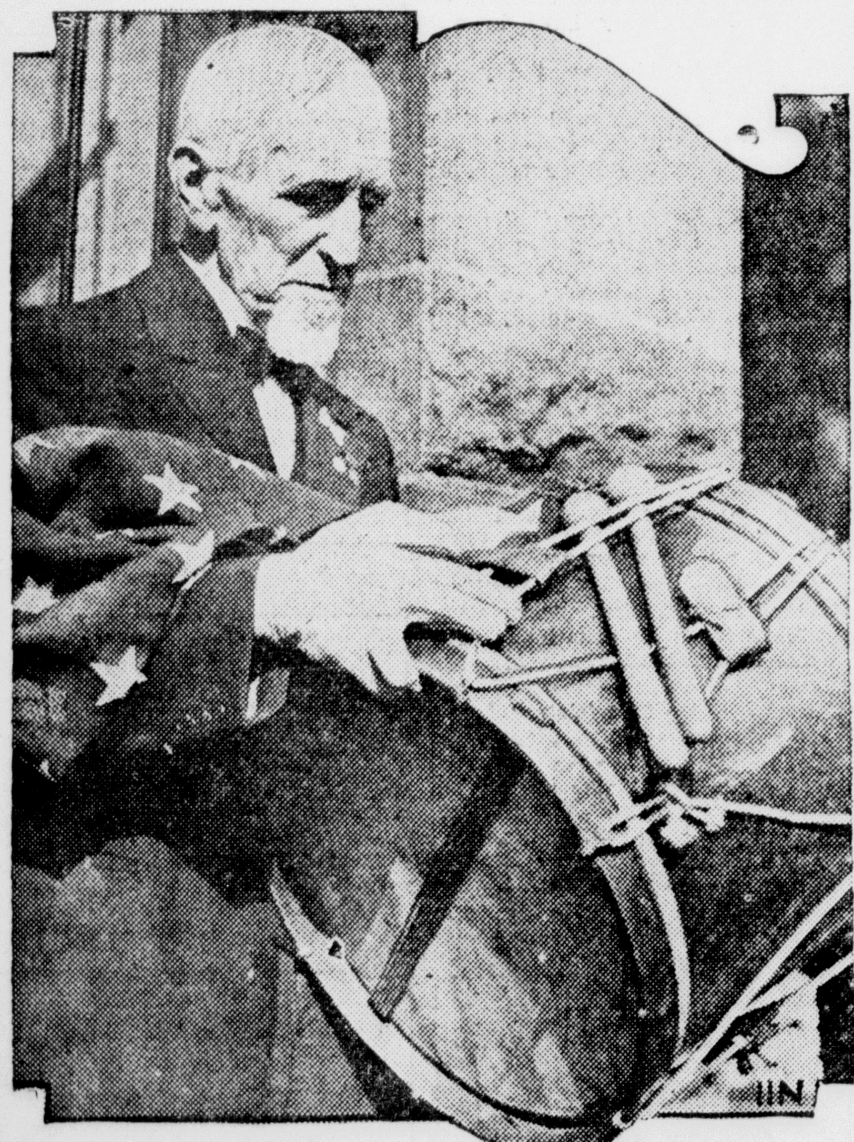

There is a certain dignity, as well as great charm, in the new suits for the matron, while those for her daughter have chic in abundance. These characteristics follow through the whole gamut of clothes for formal and informal wear, for rain or shine. A chic sports model raincoat for the schoolgirl or debutante, extreme left, is made of a French suede fabric with collar, cuffs, pocket tabs and belt of genuine leather. The second model is a three-piece georgette ensemble with a graduated tuck coat. A white chiffon waist with colored embroidery and box pleated skirt complete this suit for the matron. The third, center, is a two-piece combination print with tie of plain material to match the background of print. This suit has a skirt that is pleated all 'round. The fourth suit is a three-piece, also in georgette, with waist of same in white with green banding and embroidery. Steel buttons are used down the center front of the skirt and front of the short tuck coat. A scarf collar lined with green georgette finishes this ensemble. The plain little cardigan or sleeveless jacket worn over a simple printed dress, extreme right, is one of those useful and chic garments that adds smartness to the young girl's wardrobe.

NEW HATS, ESPECIALLY THOSE FOR FORMAL WEAR, ARE FLATTERING

The new hats for formal wear are extremely flattering, which is as it should be. Who wants to wear a mere head covering? With a beige lace dress over flesh pink, left, above, is worn a smart hat of the same shade trimmed with brown lace. The lace covers the brim and is wound gracefully around the neck by the wearer, who is Norma Talmadge, of the cinemas. A charming green turban complements the four o'clock tea ensemble, center, of green crepe de chine with the blouse embroidered in tiny French roses, worn by Sally Blane. The ever flattering wide straw is illustrated in the third model, upper right, worn with a gay printed frock. Smart shoes also play a prominent part in milady's spring ensemble. Below, at left, is a smart new pair of oxfords in two tones of tan; and at the lower right, chic pumps in two brown shades, which are matched in a pouch bag. Above the pumps a dinner hat of finely woven straw matches the beige velvet wrap worn by Norma Talmadge.

"Trail of Glory Leads But to the Grave" Who's to Be Tammany's New Chief?

Once this drum sounded a merry quick step as the Grand Army of the Republic swept victoriously through the land, but for many years it has known only the funeral roll. The flag has rippled more and more at half-staff as the ranks of the survivors of Gettysburg and Bull Run thinned out, and now both have passed into the possession of John H. Boyer, above, Reading, Pa., Civil War veteran, one of the few remaining members of the Grand Army. The Reading Post of the G. A. R. has been dissolved because there are not enough members left to hold a meeting.

Here are Thomas M. Farley, left, peacemaker in the fight to elect a new Wigwam Sachem for Tammany Hall, and John F. Curley, one of the leading candidates for the job, talking things over at a conference where the leaders tried to choose a successor to Judge George Olvany, who resigned.

Royal Nuptials Unite Norway and Sweden

Newark Death Crash Mystery Still Unsolved

of the Sunday merry-makers whose lives were snuffed out in the fatal plane crash at Newark, N. J., when fourteen persons were killed.

Rumor She'll Marry Still Persists

Whether Connie Talmadge will have it or not, her friends have her down as marrying Townsend Netcher of Chicago, Ill. They insist that Connie told them May 8 is to be the day when she will take her third mate shown above with her during one of their many moments together in Hollywood, Cal.

HELD FOR BRUTAL BANK MURDERS

Lamar, Colo., authorities believe the taking into custody of two alleged killer-bandits at Kansas City, Mo., Charles Chester Clinton and Jack Reed, may mean the end of an 11-month hunt for slayers of A. N. Parish, 77, president of a Lamar bank, his son, a bank teller, whom the desperadoes took as hostage during the holdup, and a young doctor whom they killed after calling him to dress the wounds of wounded members of the band. Five men participated in the bank holdup. Clinton and Reed, above, deny the charges, declaring they were miles from Lamar on the day of the holdup.

Diamond Wedding Anniversary

Married before the Civil War, Mr. and Mrs. John Klemme, of Brookville, Ind., claim the distinction of being the oldest married couple in the United States. Seven of their ten children are alive and will attend their 75th anniversary celebration.

Popular Actress and Husband-to-Be

Anita Stewart, famous movie actress, and George Peabody Converse, whom she will marry in June. Mr. Converse, scion of a prominent Boston family, is at present managing a country-wide stage tour of the former flicker star.

BANDIT'S FINGER SLIPS; APOLOGIZES

Does your husband leave this up to you?

IF you have the responsibility of looking after the family car, there are some things you ought to know about motor oil... Things which nobody has cared to talk about before.

Oil must meet four requirements, engineers say, if lubrication is to be both complete and correct. Motor oil must provide—the 4 essentials of complete and proper lubrication

1. LOW CARBON CONTENT
2. NON-FOULING CARBON
3. IDEAL BODY AT ALL OPERATING TEMPERATURES
4. LOW POUR POINT

Thousands of automobile owners have found that there is one oil—Shell Motor Oil—which has all four of these characteristics.

Many otherwise good lubricants leave excessive carbon of a hard, flinty nature. But Shell forms little carbon, 20 to 33 per cent less than most oils.

And the little carbon which it forms is soft, fluffy, non-fouling. It blows away with the exhaust gases.

Shell Motor Oil has ideal body at all operating temperatures. That means it has courage and a fighting heart... it won't break down and cause trouble through long, hard service. You may never need to drive sixty miles an hour, but it's good to know you can with safety to your engine.

And Shell Motor Oil has a low pour point to make starting easy in cold weather.

Regular users of Shell Motor Oil tell of marked reduction in carbon removal jobs. They report amazing trouble-free performance, enjoy lowered operating costs and have fewer repair bills.

The quality which makes such satisfactory performance possible, is due to two things: the selection of the crude petroleum which forms the base of Shell Motor Oil, and the refining process which prepares that crude for use.

Shell's vast oil fields produce a great quantity of crude oil from which Shell selects its lubricating stock. And the refining process developed and used exclusively by Shell, prepares this crude in a very special way. Then Shell Motor Oil passes 259 tests before it is sealed for shipment from the refinery.

STOP AT THE SIGN OF THE SHELL

You'll find courteous attendants who will be glad to drain the crankcase of your car and refill with the right amount and correct grade of Shell Motor Oil. The familiar yellow and red service stations are convenient everywhere.

If you have a car, but no husband...

The business woman who drives a car should be particularly concerned with the economy of operation and the continuous trouble-free service which the use of Shell Motor Oil assures.

Women like 400 "Extra Dry" Shell Gasoline because it starts quickly and delivers the extra ounces of power when needed. Ought to cost more, but it doesn't.

TEAPOT DOME SPOUTS TRAGEDY

Teapot Dome has spouted again, this time bringing tragedy in the shooting to death of Edward L. Doheny, Jr., by his secretary, Hugh Plunkett at Beverly Hills, Cal., and the suicide of the latter. First brought to public attention in 1922 when the senate adopted a resolution by the late Senator Robert M. LaFollette calling for investigation of Teapot Dome and other naval oil reserves, this drama of oil has been one of the nation's headlines ever since. E. L. Doheny, top, right, and Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, top, left, were declared not guilty of conspiracy to defraud in connection with the case. Harry M. Daugherty, center, former attorney general, resigned his cabinet post under pressure; the late Edwin Denby, right, center, secretary of the navy, in the Harding cabinet, also resigned. Doheny, Jr., is shown below Denby, and on the left are LaFollette, Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., who has taken his father's senate seat, and, below, Plunkett.

READ THIS FIRST:

Betty Brown, dancer, finds the mere attraction to her by her profession are not desirable. One of them, Andy Adair, takes her for an automobile ride and wrecks the car, dislocating her knee and ending her dancing career. He does not come to the hospital to see her, but George Harris, an old school friend, pays her expenses through this, and later gives her a position as cashier in his restaurant, which enables her to pay for a subsequent operation which cures her knee. She attends business school at night, and he presents her with a typewriter on her graduation. She writes him a note on it, which comes her to him; he asks her to sign it, which she does.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLIV

It was a serious Betty who went to the restaurant the morning after she had written and signed the indiscreet note committing herself to George Harris.

She was fully determined to keep her promise and marry George if he asked her. But she was anxious to try her wings as a business woman, and so sought George at the first opportunity.

"George," she began, "have you that note I wrote you last night in your pocket?"

"Yes, Betty. I thought it was a very sweet note. I want to keep it always. Do you mind?"

"No. I don't mind. I want you to take it out and read it again. As you read it I want you to know that I meant every word of it and that I am ready to make good at any time."

He removed the note from his pocket, re-read it, and looked at her inquiringly.

"The reason I said that, is because I want to do something which may seem disloyal. I want you to have my note in mind before I tell you. I am going to ask you something; I will do whatever you want."

"You are not going to ask my permission to dance in public, I hope! I am unalterably opposed to your doing that!"

"I am not that. I have graduated from business school, and I want to find a position at some secretarial work. You heard what that man said about the best brains of the country flowing through the pencil of some stenographer. I may be foolish, but I believe I could make myself valuable to some man as his secretary. The girl who has been helping me here at the cigar counter could do my work just as well as I can."

"Is there anything wrong here? Has anything happened to offend you?"

"Not a thing, George. You, every one, has been most kind. But I feel I have reached my limit. I would like to try this new work."

"I certainly would not stand in the way of another legitimate ambition," George spoke thoughtfully. "Let me try it!" urged Betty. "I made a failure of dancing through no fault of my own. I am here, not because I could have obtained or retained the job, but because you are my friend."

"You have earned every cent I have paid you," George shook his head.

"It is nice of you to say it, George," answered Betty, "but can't you see I want a chance to win on my own? I paid my tuition in school out of my earnings here. That knowledge is mine, earned by me! If I can get a secretarial position and make my own way I would be proud of myself."

"I think I see. Your thought is most praiseworthy," said George, in his stilted way.

"I don't want to get away from you," Betty instantly realized that she had not spoken the truth, and hastily corrected herself. "I mean, George, that I don't feel as you thought I might feel about the restaurant when I came here. I don't feel I am too good to work in a restaurant. I don't feel I am too good to work for you."

"I believe that."

"You are right to believe it. I just want to try my own wings. If I succeed, it will be all my success. Of course I won't work all ways, but I would like a chance to try my best before I stop."

"What do you mean by stopping work?" asked George, wrinkling his brows.

"Every girl expects to get married, some day," answered Betty. "It is the common lot of us all, isn't it?"

"I am glad to hear you say that," returned George. "No woman should think of staying in business all her life. I am glad you expect to be married. Knowing you have no thought of getting back into the old group of associates acquired during the days you danced, and that you will try something proper and legitimate, I give my consent."

"Thank you, George. Remember, you have the note I wrote you last night. You can call on me at any time."

"I will call on you any time I feel that I should," he said, seriously. "But if you are to find a position for yourself without help, better hold your own. You should be careful where you work."

"Oh, I'm not going to take a position anywhere there is not a good chance for advancement!" exclaimed Betty. "I wouldn't take a mere routine job as a stenographer. I am fitted for secretarial work. Unless I can find a good place I will stay here, if you will let me."

"You may stay here as long as you like, Betty. If you like, you can come here after hours and take cash during the rush hour and I will pay you for it. I am glad to co-operate with you."

It was a light-hearted Betty who went home that night. That foolish note to George committed her to him absolutely; more than likely he would ask her to make good on the promise. But his co-operation in her desire to find another position until such time as he wanted to get married made her happy.

She knew she was foolish, but she felt that if she did not see George for twelve or fourteen hours a day she would be able to endure him easier. She realized she should not marry a man hard to endure, but if George wanted her she would marry him in spite of her sentiments.

When she felt rebellious she always went over possibilities, but he treated her as did Andy Adair when she had her accident. The public ward of the hospital, no separate nurse, she crying children and complaining grown folks, the possibility of improper medical attention, all made her shudder.

George had saved her from all this, then had given her this position in his restaurant so she could immediately be independent!

Yes, she would marry him, but she rejoiced in the respite the chance of getting a new job gave her.

When she reached her room that night she looked over the newspaper advertisements to see who wanted a secretary. Finding one promising ad for a stenographer, she sat down to her little portable typewriter and made application. She gave her qualifications and mailed the answer to the letter box of the newspaper.

She waited two days for a reply, but when none came she realized it was her duty to answer all the advertisements of this nature and not wait for an answer from each before answering the others.

One evening she received an answer to one of her applications. The letter was brevity itself, and told her to come in person to the office of a book publishing concern at nine the next morning and ask for Mr. Crane.

Betty danced that night as she had not danced since she hurt her knee. She and Mrs. Hogan amused themselves all evening speculating on what kind of a man Mr. Crane, Betty's new boss, would be. Betty argued that as his name was Crane he would be tall, with thin legs and humped shoulders, but Mrs. Hogan said men never filled their names. Lancelotti and Claudes were always bad boys, while Bills and Jims were sissies!

They debated also how much salary Betty should demand. Mrs. Hogan was all for a big salary at the start. She must make them understand she was not a cheap girl. Betty held out for a small salary and a chance to prove her sterling worth before demanding a raise.

They chattered over it as though it were a settled matter. Mr. Crane, already selected as Betty's boss, was very fortunate to get her. He should be grateful, indeed!

Betty retired at last, telling Mrs. Hogan that she wanted to feel her best the next day so she could make a good impression on Mr. Crane.

TEAPOT DOME SPOUTS TRAGEDY

Teapot Dome has spouted again, this time bringing tragedy in the shooting to death of Edward L. Doheny, Jr., by his secretary, Hugh Plunkett at Beverly Hills, Cal., and the suicide of the latter. First brought to public attention in 1922 when the senate adopted a resolution by the late Senator Robert M. LaFollette calling for investigation of Teapot Dome and other naval oil reserves, this drama of oil has been one of the nation's headlines ever since. E. L. Doheny, top, right, and Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, top, left, were declared not guilty of conspiracy to defraud in connection with the case; Harry M. Daugherty, center, former attorney general, resigned his cabinet post under pressure; the late Edwin Doheny, right, center, secretary of the navy, in the Harding cabinet, also resigned. Doheny, Jr., is shown below Dauby and on the left is LaFollette, Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., who has taken his father's senate seat, and, below, Plunkett.

Passed Up!

READ THIS FIRST: Betty Brown, dancer, finds the men attracted to her by her profession are not desirable. One of them, Andy Adair, takes her for an automobile ride and wrecks the car, dislocating her knee and ending her dancing career. He does not come to the hospital to see her, but George Harris, an old school friend, pays her expenses through this, and later gives her a position as cashier in his restaurant, which enables her to pay for a subsequent operation which cures her knee. She attends business school at night, and he presents her with a typewriter on her graduation. She writes him a note on it, which commits her to him; he asks her to sign it, with the story NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLIV It was a serious Betty who went to the restaurant the morning after she had written and signed the indiscreet note committing herself to George Harris. She was fully determined to keep her promise and marry George if he asked her. But she was anxious to try her wings as a business woman, and so sought George at the first opportunity. "George," she began, "have you that note I wrote you last night in your pocket?" "Yes, Betty. I thought it was a very sweet note. I want to keep it always. Do you mind?" "No, I don't mind. I want you to take it out and read it again. As you read it I want you to know that I mean every word of it and that I am ready to make good at any time."

He removed the note from his pocket, re-read it, and looked at her inquiringly. "The reason I said that, is because I want to do something which may seem disloyal. I want you to have my note in mind before I tell you. I am going to ask you something; I will do whatever you want."

"You are not going to ask my permission to dance in public, I hope! I am unalterably opposed to your doing that!" "It isn't that. I have graduated from business school, and I want to find a position at some secretarial work. You heard what that man said about the best brains of the country flowing through the pencil of some stenographer. I may be foolish, but I believe I could make myself valuable to some man as his secretary. The girl who has been helping me here at the cigar counter could do my work just as well as I can."

"Is there anything wrong here? Has anything happened to offend you?" "Not a thing, George. You, every one, has been most kind. But I feel I have reached my limit. I would like to try this new work."

"I certainly would not stand in the way of another's legitimate ambition," George spoke thoughtfully. "Let me try it," urged Betty. "I made a failure of dancing through no fault of my own. I am here, not because I could have obtained or retained the job, but because you are my friend."

"You have earned every cent I have paid you," George shook his head. "It is nice of you to say it, George," answered Betty, "but can't you see I want a chance to win on my own? I paid my tuition in school out of my earnings here. That knowledge is mine, earned by me! If I can get a secretarial position and make my own way I would be proud of myself."

"I think I see. Your thought is most praiseworthy," said George, in his stilted way. "I believe that." "You are right to believe it. I just want to try my own wings. If I succeed, it will be all my success. Of course I won't work always, but I would like a chance to try my best before I stop."

"I will call on you any time I feel that I should," he said, seriously. "But if you are to find a position for yourself without help, better hold your position here until you are located. You should be careful where you work."

"Oh, I'm not going to take a position anywhere there is not a good chance for advancement!" exclaimed Betty. "I wouldn't take a mere routine job as a stenographer. I am fitted for secretarial work. Unless I can find a good place I will stay here, if you will let me."

The Theater

Back in 1909 a young man directed a motion picture for the old Biograph studios, which was released under the title of "The Adventures of Dollie," and you can bet your bottom dollar it was a "wow."

The other day this same director finished his four-hundred and thirty-first picture and you can bet the same way on his latest effort. The young man was David Wark Griffith, pole horse of the cinema fraternity and director extraordinary.

In twenty years Griffith's companies have spent $12,834,000 for his productions and received in return $56,053,000. "Birth of a Nation", of course, was Griffith's masterpiece of money makers.

The twenty-second anniversary of Lewis Relief Corps will be celebrated by a thimble party, tomorrow, Tuesday afternoon, March 23. Every corps member is urged to be present.

The Candy Kitchen on E. Main St., owned by Vlachos & Revelas, has been refitted with fine new fixtures and the old ones have been removed to Middletown, where the firm is preparing to open another store.

A great many, in fact the vast majority of Gazette subscribers have paid up arrears and renewed for the present year, to whom we extend our thanks.

Thinking that something stronger than "near beer" was being sold in the Atlas Hotel "temperance emporium," police officers searched the building from cellar to garret Saturday night.

While Griffith was grinding out pictures and taking in bank notes he was doing a great deal of technique developing and is generally credited with devising such movie standbys as the flashback, close-up and soft-focus effects.

Baroness Fern Andra, who arrived in Hollywood recently, reversed the usual route that leads to screen success. Whereas most of the film-struck beauties hie themselves from Iowa cornfields to cinema stardom, the Baroness went from Watska, Ill., to win fame in German and British pictures before coming to Hollywood.

She will make one picture before returning to the continent. The

HOT-DOG PEDIGREES

FRANKFORT-ON-MAIN, March 22.—Authentic and accurate pedigrees appear to be as essential for "hot dogs" as they are for all other species of thoroughbred canines. A local court recently ruled that only such sausages as originate in Frankfort may be known as frankfurters, all others being branded as unlawful interlopers. As a result of this decision a permanent injunction was entered against a Central German firm for bidding it the use of this popular name for its own line of "hot dogs."

The funds derived from said tax levies hereby required shall be placed in a separate and distinct fund, which together with all interest collected on the same, shall be irrevocably pledged for the payment of the interest and principal of said bonds when and as the same fall due. Provided, however, that in each year that the assessments anticipated by said bonds are payable and are applicable to the payment of such interest and principal and are appropriated for such purpose, the amount of such tax shall be reduced by the amount of the assessment so appropriated.

SECTION 5. That said bonds shall be first offered at par and accrued interest to the Trustees of the Sinking Fund in their official capacity, and if said trustees refuse to take any or all of said bonds, then said bonds not so taken shall be advertised for public sale and sold in the manner provided by law under the direction of the Finance Committee and the Auditor, but not for less than their par value and accrued interest; the bond sale advertisement shall state that any one desiring to do so, may present a bid or bids for such bonds based upon their bearing a different rate of interest than hereinbefore fixed, provided, however, that where a fractional interest rate is bid, such fraction shall be one-quarter of one per cent or multiples thereof; the proceeds from the sale of said bonds, except the premium and accrued interest thereon and the amount of said bonds issued for interest, shall be used for the purpose aforesaid and for no other purpose; the premium and accrued interest received from such sale and the amount of said bonds issued for interest shall be transferred to the Trustees of the Sinking Fund to be applied by them in payment of the principal and interest of said bonds in the manner provided by law.

SECTION 6. The City Auditor is hereby directed to forward a certified copy of this ordinance to the County Auditor.

SECTION 7. That this ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after the earliest period allowed by law.

WHEREAS, The City Commission has requested the City Auditor to issue his certificate as to the estimated life of the property and improvement constructed from the proceeds of the bonds hereinafter referred to, and the City Auditor has certified to the Commission such estimated life as exceeding five (5) years, and has further certified the maximum maturity of said bonds as ten (10) years, and

WHEREAS, the notes, issued in anticipation of the issuance of the bonds hereinafter referred to, are about to fall due, and

SECTION 1. That it is deemed necessary to issue bonds of the City of Xenia, Ohio, in the principal sum of Twelve Thousand Three Hundred Dollars, ($12,300.00), in order to provide a fund for the purpose of improving East Market Street by the extension of sewer district No. 3 from the present sewer East a distance of 635 feet; also East Church Street by the extension of sewer districts Nos. 2 and 3 from Columbus Street to Patton Street, and in anticipation of the special assessment for said improvement, and to provide a fund for the payment of not to exceed one year's interest on said bonds in the sum of Six Hundred Seventy-Six Dollars and Fifty Cents, ($676.50). That such bonds shall be issued in one lot and that anticipatory notes have been issued in anticipation of the issuance of such bonds, but only notes aggregating Twelve Thousand Three Hundred Dollars, ($12,300.00), having been sold the balance of said note issue is hereby cancelled and held for naught.

SECTION 2. That bonds of the City of Xenia shall be issued in the principal sum of Twelve Thousand Three Hundred Dollars, ($12,300.00), for the purpose aforesaid. Each of said bonds shall be in the denomination of One Thousand Dollars, ($1,000.00), except one of said bonds shall be in the denomination of One Thousand Three Hundred Dollars, ($1,300.00), and said bonds shall be dated the 1st day of March, 1929, and shall bear interest at the rate of five and one-half (5½%) per cent, per annum, payable semi-annually, on the first days of March and September of each year until the principal sum is paid, provided, however, that if said bonds are sold bearing a different rate of interest than hereinbefore specified, such bonds shall bear such rate of interest as may be provided for in the resolution of the City Commission approving the award thereof. The interest coupons attached to said bonds shall bear the facsimile signature of the City Auditor. Said bonds shall bear the consecutive numbers from one to twelve, both inclusive.

SECTION 4. That for the purpose of providing the necessary funds to pay the interest on the foregoing issue of bonds, promptly when, and as the same falls due and also to provide a fund sufficient to discharge the said serial bonds at maturity, there shall be and is hereby levied on all the taxable property in said City of Xenia, in addition to all other taxes, a direct tax annually during the period said bonds are to run in an amount sufficient to provide funds to pay interest upon said bonds as and when the same falls due and also to provide a fund for the discharge of the principal of said serial bonds at maturity, which tax shall be not less than the interest and sinking fund tax required by Section II of Article XII of the Constitution.

Said tax shall be and is hereby ordered, computed, certified, levied and extended upon the tax duplicate and collected by the same officers, in the same manner and at the same time that taxes for general purposes for each of said years are certified, extended and collected. Said tax shall be placed before and in preference to all other items and for the full amount thereof. The funds derived from said tax levies hereby required shall be placed in a separate and distinct fund, which together with all interest collected on the same, shall be irrevocably pledged for the payment of the interest and principal of said bonds when and as the same fall due. Provided, however, that in each year that the assessments anticipated by said bonds are payable and are applicable to the payment of such interest and principal and are appropriated for such purpose, the amount of such tax shall be reduced by the amount of the assessment so appropriated.

SECTION 5. That said bonds shall be first offered at par and accrued interest to the Trustees of the Sinking Fund in their official capacity, and if said trustees refuse to take any or all of said bonds, then said bonds not so taken shall be advertised for public sale and sold in the manner provided by law under the direction of the Finance Committee and the Auditor, but not for less than their par value and accrued interest; the bond sale advertisement shall state that any one desiring to go so, may present a bid or bids for such bonds based upon their bearing a different rate of interest than hereinbefore fixed, provided, however, that where a fractional interest rate is bid, such fraction shall be one-quarter of one per cent or multiples thereof; the proceeds from the sale of said bonds, except the premium and accrued interest thereon and the amount of said bonds issued for interest, shall be used for the purpose aforesaid and for no other purpose; the premium and accrued interest received from such sale and the amount of said bonds issued for interest shall be transferred to the Trustees of the Sinking Fund to be applied by them in payment of the principal and interest of said bonds in the manner provided by law.

SECTION 6. That the City Auditor is hereby directed to forward a certified copy of this ordinance to the County Auditor.

SECTION 7. That this ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after the earliest period allowed by law.
